AMERICANS LAUNCH ALL-OUT ATTACK TO SEIZE CHERBOURG

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces unlimbered this afternoon their greatest assault since the storming of the beaches of Normandy—a combined land and air attack intended to crack the last defenses of the fortified city of Cherbourg.

The attack began when waves of British and American planes swept in with a terrific aerial barrage lasting 80 minutes, a field dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead reported.

Rocked back on their heels by the weight of this assault in which light and medium bombers dropped down almost to cannon-mouth level to drop their explosive charges, the Germans were immediately beset by a thunderous artillery pounding which left smoke and flame sweeping the German forts.

American doughboys of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, drawn up in position tensely waiting the effect of these blows, then swept forward.

They last were reported hammering at Fort Du Roule, only about 1,500 yards south of the military port, and at Fort Octeville, only slightly farther away to southwest.

The latest headquarters announcements showed the concentric attack virtually had split the German garrison into three segments.

Bradley's troops captured St. Pierre Eglise, 8½ miles east of the port and the last road junction leading to Cherbourg from Cape Barfleur, isolating the Germans in the northeastern tip of the peninsula. Other troops coming up from the south had entered Quettehou, a large town near St. Vaast La Hougue on the east coast and 13 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

On the west another spearhead had practically split the Germans in Cherbourg from those in the northwestern tip of the peninsula by advancing to within half a mile of Beaumont-Hague on the road to Cap De La Hague. Beaumont-Hague is 8½ miles west of Cherbourg.

Supreme headquarters said it lacked any knowledge of a reported American ultimatum by field radio to the Cherbourg garrison demanding surrender by 7 a. m. Greenwich meridian time, today (3 a. m. eastern war time). The London Daily Sketch said last night it had recorded such a broadcast.

It was assumed that if the ultimatum was made it was rejected and that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley had ordered a final attack. Supreme headquarters said it was possible the field commander might have made the demand on his own authority.

On the American left flank, U. S. infantrymen plunged to within three miles of the sea in the vicinity of St. Croix-Hague, a village seven miles west of Cherbourg astride the main highway to Cap De La Hague, where some German forces are reported seeking at least temporary refuge.

On the right a fast-moving column speared to a point almost as close to the northern coast by reaching the Saire river near the village of LeTheil, less than five miles east and slightly south of Cherbourg.

In the center substantial gains were made along the main road from Valognes. Communique No. 33 reported "good progress" with advances of two to three miles along the entire front.

Inspect Rocket Bases

Allied experts flew into the Cherbourg peninsula to investigate the flying bomb bases captured intact by the American troops, but the supreme command said there were no indications the Germans had been using these against England. It appeared, a spokesman said, that the American drive over the peninsula left the enemy insufficient time to get the launching sites ready for operation.

Except for the swift encircling drive on Cherbourg, there was little activity on the beachhead. The communique reported only patrol activity elsewhere, although enemy artillery and mortar fire in the British-Canadian sector at Tilly was said to be unusually heavy.

Rocket Bases Hit Again by Yank Bombers

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—American Fortresses and Liberators today gave the rocket-launching grounds in the Pas-De-Calais area their fourth hammering in less than 24 hours.

The daylight blow followed a night of farflung aerial attacks extending from France to Germany's industrial Ruhr and Berlin—dwarfing the Germans' cross-channel barrage of rocket bombs, which they asserted today are now coming over with incendiary loads.

(The Germans also said, without Allied confirmation, that the American planes which bombed Berlin yesterday and flew on to Russia used an airbase at Poltava in the Ukraine, 1,500 miles from London. The Allies announced that some fighter planes escorting the Berlin bombers also flew to Russia.)

Last night Berlin was attacked by speedy Mosquitos while British Lancasters hit Ruhr and Rhineland objectives.

Keeping the assault going on the Germans' still active rocket bomb launching bases in the Pas De Calais area of France, RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes followed American Liberators and medium bombers over that region yesterday evening and delivered what was described officially as a "devastating" blow at the German installations there.

Forty-six bombers were missing from the widespread British operations, which included mine laying in enemy waters.

Planes Over Styria

The German radio warned today that Allied planes were over Styria—perhaps indicating American bombers from Italy were out.

The daylight raid against Berlin by a fleet of more than 1,000 U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 1,200 escorting fighters was the greatest of the war

LOSS IS THIRD MOST COSTLY BLOW SINCE BEGINNING OF WAR

By The Associated Press

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, June 22—Carrier planes of the United States Fifth fleet inflicted smashing defeat on a formidable Japanese naval force trapped Monday off the Philippines, sinking four ships and damaging at least 10 before the enemy escaped under cover of night.

The victory, the third great blow since Pearl Harbor against Japan's navy, stemmed from Sunday's great air battle off Saipan island, in which American carrier planes and warship guns shot down 353 enemy aircraft.

Because of this stunning aerial loss, the Japanese fleet, caught between the Marianas and the Philippines, could send up only a handful of interceptors from its five or six carriers. Of these 15 to 20 were shot down. The American loss was 49 planes.

The enemy lost an aircraft carrier and three tankers sunk; possibly a destroyer sunk; and nine or 10 ships, including a battleship and cruiser, seriously damaged. Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth fleet suffered no surface vessel losses. The Japanese fleet, which for nearly a week dodged contact with the American force protecting the Saipan invasion, turned and fled with all speed toward the China sea. Nightfall saved it from further battering and there was no indication from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who announced the victory today, that the battle had been resumed.

In the Sunday air battle preceding the bigger struggle, American plane losses were 21 against Japan's 353. The Sunday attack represented an arms-length enemy attempt to break up the American invasion of Saipan, principal island of the Marianas and only 1,500 miles from Tokyo and the Philippines. The Monday action ended at nightfall with the Japanese fleeing and there was no indication that the battle had been resumed.

Admiral Nimitz also announced that 353 enemy planes were shot down in the Japanese futile attempt Sunday on Admiral Mitscher's force. This added 53 enemy craft to the previous estimate 300 destroyed.

Two U. S. carriers and one battleship suffered "superficial damage" and 21 aircraft were lost in combat. A fleet spokesman said superficial damage means the ship's capacity for battle was not impaired, indicating these three probably participated in Monday's action.

The attack of the Fifth fleet under command of Adm. Raymond A. Spruance was such a complete surprise that the Japanese apparently made no counter attack against any of our surface units.

Admiral Nimitz, who stayed at his headquarters past midnight receiving battle reports and still appeared bright eyed despite his 60 years, said the Japanese force consisted of four or more battleships, five or six carriers, five fleet tankers and unspecified number of cruisers and destroyers.

Damage To Japs

He listed these casualties inflicted on the enemy:

"One carrier, believed to be the Zuikaku (17,000 tons) received three 1,000-pound bomb hits.

"One Hayataka class carrier was sunk.

"One Hayataka class carrier was severely damaged and left burning seriously.

"One light carrier (probably around 10,000 tons) Zuiho Taiho class received at least one bomb hit.

"One Kongo class battleship (29,000 tons) was damaged.

"One cruiser was damaged."

"Three destroyers were damaged, one of which is believed to have sunk.

"Three tankers were sunk.

"Two tankers were severely damaged and left burning.

"Fifteen to 20 defending aircraft were shot down."

This destruction or damaging of 14 ships was the third greatest single blow dealt the Japanese battle fleet of the war.

The greatest was the battle of Midway in June, 1942, when another carrier force under Admiral Spruance sank four enemy carriers and nearly a score of other ships.

The second biggest defeat was Nov. 13-15, 1942 in the battle off

E BOND TOTAL NOW $288,931

35.2 Per Cent of Marion Co. Quota; 460 Sales Made Yesterday.

Marion county banks and other issuing agencies shoved 460 E bonds across their counters yesterday to add $28,293.75 to the county's Fifth War Loan total.

This gave the county an E bond total of $288,931.50 which is 35.2 per cent of the E quota.

Drive leaders today continued to center their attention on E bond sales, regarding this phase of the drive as important as the sale of all other issues combined.

"We can't say that we've done a good job in the Fifth War Loan unless the E quota is over the top, and since most E sales are in small denominations, were going to need thousands more of them to do the job," Robert E. White, drive chairman, emphasized.

5,871 Sales Thus Far

So far, there have been 5,871 E sales since the drive opened.

The overall picture brightened gradually today with sales of E, F and G bonds so far in the campaign reaching a total of $351,819.25 or 10.4 per cent of the $3,365,000 quota. This, however, is only a fraction of the aggregate sales, but the other sales to busi-

Bricker Won't Quit Contest

Ohio Governor Declares His Name Will Go Before G.O.P. Convention.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22 — Gov. Bricker of Ohio asserted flatly at a press conference today he would not withdraw his name from consideration for the Republican presidential nomination. He added he did not expect to be offered the vice presidential place on the ticket.

The Ohio governor, who arrived with a fanfare of a band playing the strains of "Beautiful Ohio," met the press in a conference preceding his appearance tomorrow before the convention's resolutions committee when he will report as chairman of a post-war advisory group on domestic issues.

The gray-haired governor, flashing a smile, told reporters that he intended to keep his name before the convention despite reports that Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York has a long lead in delegate support.

"I will not withdraw because my name will be presented to the convention," Bricker said. "Certainly I cannot see any service to myself or to the party in withdrawing."

The Ohio governor was asked if, failing to obtain the presidential nomination, he would accept second place on the ticket.

"That's something I'll never have to pass upon," Bricker said. "I am quite confident the vice presidential nomination never will be offered to me."

Bricker's backers claimed new support with J. Frank McDermond, Attica publisher, reporting the Ohioan would get 17 of Indiana's 29 votes. Indianapolis reports said previously a secret poll showed all but 3 for Dewey.

Austin V. Wood, Wheeling, W. Va., publisher and convention delegate said more than half the West Virginia delegation of 19 now favor Bricker.

An array of party leaders, including former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, predicted it would be Dewey in a breeze.

H. Alexander Smith, New Jersey G.O.P. senatorial nominee, told a reporter he heard "serious proposals" that Bricker "make it unanimous" by taking the convention floor to suggest Dewey's nomination.

Told of this, A. N. Hoopingarner, Bricker publicity director, laughed it off while another said: "We think it should be the other way around—Dewey should nominate Bricker."

ALLIES NEARING CITY OF ANCONA

Drive Within 32 Miles of Prize Port on Adriatic; Fighting Weather Improves.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 22—Allied and Italian troops are within 32 miles of Ancona, prize Italian port on the Adriatic coast, while Eighth army troops are approaching Camerino, approximately 35 miles east and a little north of Perugia, Allied headquarters announced today.

American forces to the west have pushed on 15 airline miles northwest of Grosseto. In all land operations, although weather has improved, misty conditions are preventing cross-country movements on a large scale, a communique said.

The advance toward Ancona, ranking next to Venice in port facilities in that coastal sector, was made by troops which have reached Fermo, only 65 airline miles below Rimini, eastern anchor of the so-called Pisa-Florence-Rimini line, where the fleeing Germans may offer stiff resistance against the Allied drive.

Advance Above Perugia

Eighth army troops also have approached Nocero Umbra, 14 miles west of Camerino. Limited gains were made north of the newly-taken ancient fortress citadel Perugia and in the Lake Trasimeno area west of Perugia, despite strong resistance.

A field dispatch from Correspondent Sid Feder said casualties inflicted upon the Germans during the past 41 days of the

G.I. MEASURE SIGNED BY PRESIDENT TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—President Roosevelt today signed the "G. I. bill of rights" setting up a vast government aid program for veterans of this war.

With congressional leaders and heads of veterans' organizations looking on, the Chief Executive put his signature to the measure authorizing federal loans, hospitalization, job insurance, schooling and other ex-service benefits estimated to cost between $3,000,000,000 and $8,500,000,000.

The President said the bill carries out most of the recommendations he has made for veterans' aid and notifies the members of the armed forces that the people at home will not let them down.

He urged additional war service legislation, however, to give veterans social security credit toward old age pensions for the time served in the armed forces and to provide education and unemployment compensation benefits for members of the merchant marine. What veterans want more than anything, he said, is assurance of employment after the war.

2 New Drives Begun by Reds

Strong Russian Forces Attack Finns in Front North of Lake Ladoga.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 22—The Red army hurled masses of men and equipment into two new drives on a broad front north of Lake Ladoga today in an effort to make a quick end of the war with Finland, already reported in the throes of a government upheaval which may be the prelude to a bid for peace.

Launching of the drives was announced last night in a Moscow communique, which also disclosed that Soviet forces advancing from captured Viipuri on the Karelian Isthmus south of Lake Ladoga were within 20 miles of the border fixed at the end of the 1939-40 Finnish-Russian war.

The political situation in Helsinki as the Russians intensified pressure on the staggering Finnish army remained obcure, but there were strong indications the Finnish government was facing a crisis.

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said a Finnish peace cabinet already had been selected. An Associated Press Stockholm dispatch said a Swedish paper declared the Finnish government crisis has been "defacto solved," a phrase interpreted to mean the

Countywide Group Carries Bond Drive into Rural Areas

Thousands of war bond dollars from the rich farm lands of Marion county and the communities within the county are being quietly rounded up in the Fifth War Loan by the county War Finance committee's agricultural chairman, A. J. Loudenslager, and his countywide organization.

Conducting a war bond drive in the rural areas is a vastly different proposition than in a city, and is especially difficult just now because farmers are working at top speed from daylight to dusk, and the capacity work load on the farms makes it hard for workers to find time to make their calls or for their prospects to find time to see the workers.

But to Mr. Loudenslager and his corps of township chairmen, with their worker organizations, the job is one that has to be done, and will be done thoroughly by the time the big drive is over.

Mr. Loudenslager today issued a Fifth War Loan appeal directed to workers and prospects alike in which he called for a generous response of war bond purchases during this campaign.

"You know, I get a little impatient with the fellow who tells me he wants to get all of his debts paid before he puts money into war bonds," the agricultural chairman said. "It makes me want to tell him that our boys who went to war didn't have time to wait until their automobiles were

Saipan Island Airdrome Put in Condition for U. S. Planes

By REMBERT JAMES

Representing the Combined American Press

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF SAIPAN, June 22—(June 21, U. S. time)—Japan's fleet after a week of complex maneuvering still is avoiding surface battle with the powerful United States fleet guarding the Saipan invasion.

The Aslito airdrome on Saipan, most valuable in the Marianas and only 1,500 miles from Japan and the Philippines, was ready for operation today after Seabees repaired and extended its 3,600-foot main runway.

(James, Associated Press war correspondent, in this dispatch thus disclosed for the first time that Aslito was in operation and that as of June 21, U. S. time, the two fleets deployed between the Marianas islands and the Philippines had not yet joined surface battle).

Shielded by a great American battle fleet standing off the Marianas, Marines and Army troops launched a major attack this morning to wipe out Japanese defending the island. The situation forced upon Japan's elusive grand fleet the grimmest challenge yet presented it—to come in and fight.

Bitter Choice for Japs

The enemy fleet still avoiding battle, had the bitter choice of fighting or abandoning Saipan's weakening garrison to destruction.

On Saipan the American attack began shortly after dawn with veteran forces pushing ahead along a four-mile front extending entirely across the island from the outskirts of Garapan, main town on the western shore, and eastward along the slopes of Mount Tapotchau to Magicienne bay on the east coast.

At one point the Marines advanced one mile in the first three

Poll Gives Dewey Lead in Two Areas Of Eastern States

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 22—Among the list of possible Republican presidential nominees, Governor Thomas E. Dewey stands on the eve of the G. O. P. national convention, as the overwhelming choice of the Republican rank and file in the New England and Middle Atlantic regions.

The New York governor has during the past seven weeks added seven percentage points to his popular strength in New England and four percentage points in the Middle Atlantic area.

Governor John W. Bricker has also picked up considerable strength in the New England area during the same period. His support among the Republican rank and file in this area has jumped ten percentage points.

Standings of the possible nominees in other sections of the country will be reported before the convention opens.

A last-minute pre-convention survey in the 12 states constituting the New England and Middle Atlantic regions shows the preferences of Republicans among potential presidential nominees as follows:

New England Section
Dewey	64%
Bricker	14
Stassen	4
Middle Atlantic Section
Dewey	66%
Bricker	7
Stassen	4

All others, including Wendell Willkie and General Douglas MacArthur, receive a combined total of 18 per cent in the New England section, 23 per cent in the Middle Atlantic section.

The New England section includes the states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, while the Middle Atlantic area comprises New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

The 37mm Gun

Associated Press Features

The 37 mm gun—the smallest and one of the most versatile of all field artillery pieces—can be used for anti-aircraft, anti-tank or anti-personnel purposes with automatic, semi-automatic and manual feeds, it can fire 120 rounds per minute when used as an automatic weapon against aircraft.

Light in weight (912 pounds) quickly assembled, its value as a weapon of surprise is further enhanced by its small size, which makes it easy to camouflage.

As an anti-tank weapon, it is mounted in light armored cars or on a two-wheel carriage. As an anti-aircraft gun, it is mounted on a four-wheel trailer carriage. In firing position, the chassis is lowered to the ground, taking the weight completely off the wheels, giving the gun greater stability.

Ohioan Who Gave Life To Save His Men Is Awarded Medal

...ted by The Associated Press

THE FIFTH ARMY, June 22 — Second Lt. ... of Toledo, O., one ...'s outstanding war ... been awarded posi... the country's highest ...ecoration, the congres...dal of honor.

... a member of an in...ment of the Fifth "Marne" division, was ...tion in Sicily July 11, ...

...allantry and intrepidity ... above and beyond the call of duty," the citation reads, but behind these words lies one of the most valorous and sacrificial deeds of the war.

Craig alone wiped out an enemy machinegun which had been holding up the advance of his entire rifle company near Formicola, Sicily. On a second occasion, though he knew it would mean certain death, he voluntarily drew the enemy's fire upon himself, thus extricating his ambushed platoon from a trap in which it had become enmeshed, and saving the lives of its members. In this deed, he knowingly gave his life but not before he had single handedly wiped out eight enemy and wounded several others.

Whole Company Held Up

It was late morning and the hot Sicilian sun beat down torturously on the American troops attacking Formicola in the second day of the island campaign. Craig's platoon and entire company had been halted behind the crest of a small hill by intense enemy machinegun, rifle and machine pistol fire.

Every officer in the company and the entire battalion staff had attempted to locate the well camouflaged heavy machinegun which was instrumental in holding up the advance, but to no avail. The barren, rolling hills typical of that sector offered no cover and observation was almost impossible. Three other officers who had crept to the top of the hill to reconnoiter the gun were slightly wounded and returned with their clothing torn by the bullets from the enemy weapon. The gun was sweeping the crest of the hill in an almost constant traversing action.

Lieutenant Craig volunteered to find the weapon and put it out of action. Receiving permission, he enlisted the aid of one of his men and began his hazaroous mission. The two crawled down a small draw which the lieutenant had found earlier and snaked their way across the flat in the direction from which the fire was coming through waist-high wheat. Locating the weapon, he worked himself to within 35 yards of its position before the enemy crew discovered him and shifted its fire directly on him.

Bullets now were striking the ground within inches of him and knifed through the wheat on either side of him. The lieutenant yelled at his companion to cover him with fire and jumping to his feet ran head-long through the hail of bullets toward the gun.

"He reached the gun position miraculously unscathed," his companion said later, "and standing over the crew killed all three of them with his carbine."

Death in Afternoon

That afternoon, Lieutenant Craig's battalion marched on the town of Campobello. He had led his platoon in an assault on a small ridge which was taken without difficulty, but as the platoon went down the forward slope of a barren hillside, it was ambushed by approximately 100 enemy. The position was untenable since there was not a shrub or rock to give either concealment. The enemy was literally pouring lead at the tiny American force, exploiting its lack of cover to the fullest extent.

Lieutenant Craig ordered his men to fall back to the cover of the ridge with the express intent of covering this maneuver by drawing fire of the enemy upon himself. Then suddenly he charged about 75 yards into the furious enemy fire and to within only 25 yards of the hostile positions. There he knelt on the ground and emptied his carbine at the enemy, killing five and wounding several others.

The enemy was stunned momentarily by Craig's display of sheer fortitude. They immediately switched all of their fire on the lieutenant. Here he met his death, but only after his men had reached cover without casualties.

Lieutenant Craig's extreme devotion to his duty and to his men saved the platoon from heavy losses, and perhaps annihilation, witnesses said.

"Lieutenant Craig was killed by the concentrated fire of the enemy; however, his gallant and intrepid conduct so inspired his men that in a subsequent attack, they ran the enemy completely out of the area, inflicting heavy losses," the citation said.

Lieutenant Craig is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jane M. Craig of Toledo, O.

Boy Scout Camp Prepared For Busy Season Starting July 9

Reservations for First Period Filled; Two More Camping Sessions Arranged Later in Summer.

Boy Scouts of the Harding area have gotten the jump on camping activities for the summer at Camp John A. Owens, by filling reservations for the first camping period from July 9 to 15. No difficulty in filling two other periods is being anticipated by Scout officials.

A full program of activities to challenge any boy's imagination has been planned. Indians and pirates will tread the grounds and explorers will hunt for gold. On the more realistic side will be archery, handicraft, rifle practice, active sports, swimming, nature study and other activities to provide a full camp schedule.

A carefully chosen staff will have charge of the camp and will assist in directing activities. Each period will be directed by Hugh F. Hay, Harding area executive, and Joseph L. Schlosser, Harding area field executive.

Typical Day at Camp

A day at camp begins with first call at 7:25 every morning. At 7:30 reveille is sounded with morning colors immediately afterward. Scouts stand at attention and salute during the ceremony. Breakfast is served from 8 to 8:30. Notice relative to ration points will be sent to Scouts after they have registered for camp. The kitchen will be under the supervision of Mrs. C. D. Dutton, assisted by Mrs. W. Blue. Both have operated the LaRue school cafeteria during the past year.

After breakfast, fatigue duties occupy the time until 9. Morning sick call will be taken care of during this time. On hand will be Dr. Robert Gray of Prospect, who will be in charge of re-checking examinations and be on hand in case of emergencies. Dr. Gray is chairman of the committee for Troop 23 at Prospect. All Scouts and Scouters will be required to pass a health examination before entering camp.

Troop Activities

Troop or special activities as announced are carried out from 9 to 10:45. Half an hour of swimming is scheduled from 11 to 11:30. At the waterfront will be Vernell Orth, Eagle Scout of Troop 15, who recently completed training at the National Boy Scout Aquatic school near Toledo. Swimming, water polo, water carnivals, diving and other swimming activities, have been planned. Last activity before dinner is inspection of quarters by scoutmasters. From 12:15 to 1 dinner will be served.

During the early afternoon there will be rest periods daily from 1 to 2. Taking the rest of the afternoon will be special activities and the afternoon swim. At 5:15 inspection will be conducted by the camp director. Sounded at 5:30 is retreat. Boys will need no urging to report for supper from 5:45 to 6:30. In the evening hours from 7:45 to 9:15 special activities will be arranged. Highlighting this period will be campfires.

Closing the day's activities will be call to quarters, sounded at 9:15. Taps will be sounded at 9:25 and the signal for quiet will be taps at 9:30.

Camp Fire Programs

Evening camp fire programs are among the most vivid memories of boys who have attended Scout camp. As night falls the Scouts gather around the fire, perform stunts, sing and listen to recitals of Indian lore. Evening prayers and "Now The Day Is Over," close the ceremony.

Camping periods in which reservations are still available are July 16 to 22 and July 23 to 29. An additional period running from July 30 to August 5 will be arranged if sufficient interest is shown.

Active sports planned for the camp will be in charge of K. C. DeGood, superintendent of schools at Nevada. Included will be baseball, volleyball, badminton, horseshoes and other sports connected with attaining the athletics merit badge. Capture the flag, white settler and Indians, and other such games will also be featured.

In charge of the East unit at Camp Owens will be James Trautman, Eagle Scout of Troop 19 at Bucyrus, who will act as provisional Scoutmaster. He will be assisted by Konstantine Solacoff of Troop 26 at Upper Sandusky. The West unit will be under the supervision of Quinton Moody, Life Scout of Troop 27 at Mt. Gilead, assisted by Paul McAllister of Troop 15 at Marion.

Rifle Range

R. M. Miller, Harding area commissioner, will be in charge of the camp rifle range. Rev. Garrison Roebuck, pastor of First United Brethren church, international trap shooting champion, and Rev. J. R. Dalls, pastor of Oakland Evangelical church, will be instructors. Mechanical detail of the range will be under the direction of Scout Dan LaMarche. The range itself is constructed in accordance with regulations of the Junior National Rifle association. Certificates and brassards will be available. Regulations provide that only camp rifles may be used on the range. Ammunition will be available at cost.

Don Caldwell will instruct at the archery range and archery badge work may be completed there. Eugene Cress of Troop 21 at Bucyrus will be in charge of camp sanitation. Dining room steward will be "Bud" Nanover of Troop 38 at Sycamore. John Blackford of Troop 25 at Upper Sandusky will act as bugler and Scout craft advancement will also be in his hands.

Evening Games

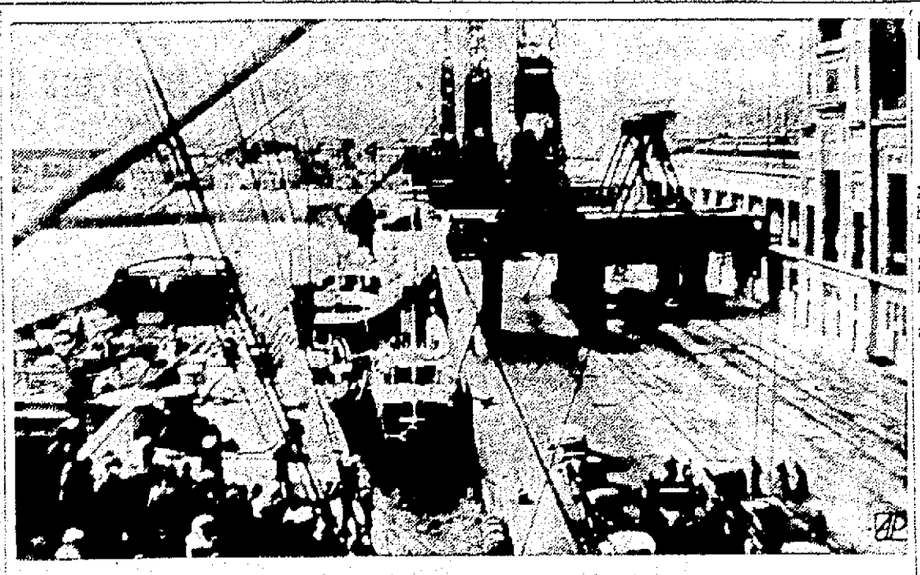

Campfire ceremonies and evening games will be planned by Mr. Schlosser. James Becker of Troop 15 at Marion will have charge of handicraft, including leathercraft, wood carving and camp equipment. The trading post will be operated by Charles Curry of Troop 25 at Upper Sandusky, who will handle the sale of handicraft, ammunition, candy and the like.

E. R. Bondley of Marion will assist with work on the Nature study merit badge, bird study, rocks and minerals and Indian lore badges. O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, Marion county game protector, will also be on hand. Rev. Raymond Gayle, Scoutmaster of Troop 19 at Bucyrus, will assist in the general camp program and Rev. Charles Harmon, Scoutmaster of Troop 24 at Prospect is also planning to spend considerable time at camp.

Advancement will be encouraged. Each Saturday afternoon a camp board of review will be held and badges presented at the court of honor at the final camp fire of the period held on Saturday night.

Scouts 15 years of age and over who are interested in gaining leadership experience may join the engineering corps for the camp. Boys will work six hours daily on camp construction projects and will be given free campships in return for their time.

Further information concerning Camp Owens may be obtained by writing or calling the Scout office at 218 East Church street in Marion.

It's Soaking Time

Associated Press Features

Now that hot weather is here to stay, victory gardens will need more attention. Heat multiplies garden troubles and growth slows up as insect invasions increase.

Even frequent rains are of little aid. Heat quickly evaporates water. And it's the man with the hoe who will get the best crops. This is important—cultivate frequently, loosen the soil; don't let the crust cake.

Hoeing will curb pesky weeds which fight for underground water and food, and it will set up a dust mulch—urgently need to prevent surface evaporation and retain moisture for plant use.

Good gardeners now will aid their crops with liberal applications of complete plant food and copious doses of water. Get the spray gun out. Keep fighting insects.

Up to now it's been enough to spray the garden with the hose, but it is time to turn the nozzle and increase the water's force. The plants need water that is cold, and plenty of it. Thorough watering cannot be done hurriedly.

Break up the soil's crust with a hoe, then play the water directly onto the soil, and let it soak away down, at least a foot deep.

Concentrate on one section of the garden one day, another the next, if the garden is big enough, and a third section the third day. Repeat the process, and if possible, see that the entire garden is soaked twice a week.

BILLION AND HALF EGGS, OHIO OUTPUT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—Ohio produced nearly a billion and a half eggs during the first five months of 1944, an increase of 8.5 per cent above the corresponding period last year, Walter R. Crispin, state supervisor in the war food administration's office of distribution, reported today. The estimated total was 1,498,000,000 eggs.

The national increase averaged seven per cent, in contrast to the two per cent requested of farmers, Crispin said.

The record national egg production, estimated so far at 30,225,000,000, was "too large for immediate civilian and wartime requirements and available commercial storage space," Crispin reported.

To help maintain egg prices, he explained, the midwest regional office of WFA purchased more than 150,500 cases of eggs and additional large quantities of dried egg powder from Ohio producers and processors between May 5 and June 11. Nationally WFA bought about four and a half billion eggs in addition to 137,000,000 pounds of dried egg powder, he added.

Gertrude Lawrence Gives Last Entertainment Before D - Day

By JOHN A. MOROSO, 3RD
AP War Correspondent

A BRITISH PORT, June 16—(Delayed)—When Actress Gertrude Lawrence arrived in Britain shortly before the invasion, her husband, Lt. Cmdr. Richard Aldrich, was the American commanding officer at an invasion port in a sector which she toured to entertain troops waiting for the invasion.

She arrived at her husband's port two days before D-day. He was unable, naturally, to tell her what was about to happen. She rushed from camp to camp entertaining and her husband, himself a playwright-actor, was miserable because he couldn't tell her that she would be the last celebrity to give a show for the boys before they started across.

She left the night before the invasion for another sector.

Capt. Leland Lovette, head of the navy's public relation's office in Washington, has no official business in France. But I wasn't surprised when I met him aboard the British warship Ceres. He had sneaked a trip across the channel to see what the invasion was like.

Luck plays a great part in war. Watching it makes some men superstitious. When Lt. (JG) Ralph F. Pullen, 33, of Shreveport, La., invaded France he wore the same underpants he used in the Sicilian invasion. He got through.

I carefully saved the same shirt I wore in the Sicilian invasion for this party. Ten days afterward I still am wearing it and still am lucky. I was singed by machine-gun bullets and knocked off my feet by the burst of an 88 shell, but remain whole.

A British battleship drew much American praise when she sailed into the beachhead area and bombarded inland targets, then methodically sailed out. The cooperation between the British, Americans, Canadians and French here was slow at first, but as men mixed and exchanged ideas things greatly improved.

Soldiers on the beachhead tell this story about George Hicks, Blue Network radio reporter who returned to the beach exhausted, borrowed a blanket and lay down by the side of the road. A truck picking up dead for temporary burial rolled up. Soldiers started to toss him in the truck, but Lt. Sam Byrd, a peacetime actor, stopped them. Byrd said Hicks slept through it all.

The unsung hero of this front is Lt. W. W. Royson, 32, of Irvington, N. J., member of a signal construction battalion who in peacetime worked for the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. His gang of soldiers sees that communications keep going. The first rapid advance saw telephone wires laid along the roads, and vehicles coming behind them often severed the connections.

Royson got lines onto regular telephone poles which the enemy often knocked down in shelling and bombing, but he kept putting them back up.

His job when I met him was driving a jeep back and forth amid sniper fire to see that communications from beachheads to the front were kept intact. I went with him awhile and found his men working everywhere, ignoring the battle to see that communications could get through.

Surgical Dressing Work Stepped Up Since D-Day To Meet Increased Needs

By MARTHA MOORE

Marion workers in the Red Cross surgical dressings center are working hard to fill the quota of 176,400 dressings required by Red Cross headquarters by August of this year.

Work was started on the present shipment of gauze at the time of the beginning of the invasion of Europe.

In the two years since the center opened, dating from September, 1942, through May, 1944, Marion women have made 327,900 bandages. Because of the increased need since D-Day, women all over the country are responding to the call for more hours in this work, and Marion women are proving no exception.

According to Mrs. Homer Waddell, assistant chairman of the surgical dressings committee, on Monday afternoon, June 12, eleven workers reported to the room in the Elk's building. This was a marked increase to the preceding week's total of four workers. Monday night there were 45 workers, Tuesday afternoon 33, Wednesday 28, Thursday 23 and Friday 28. For the week of June 12 through the afternoon of June 16, workers turned out 6,739 dressings and spent a total of 453 hours in the center.

In conducting a visitor through the work rooms, Mrs. Waddell explained that upon arriving, each worker scrubs up and dons a cap to completely cover her hair. She is then ready to go into the work room where stacks of gauze are placed on blue oilcloth-covered tables. The bandages are made on heavy paper patterns, which clearly indicate where to fold the gauze. First, however, each ravcling and small piece of lint must be removed from the gauze. Corners are mitered and folds are made completely smooth in order that there will be no friction which might cause infection.

The dressings are stacked in bunches of 25 and later inspected and counted by the instructors. The Red Cross requires that each stack of 25 be counted three times. The packs are then tied snugly, using a slip knot and leaving the long end exposed so it can be grasped easily with forceps. Then these packs are put into bags and the bags into cartons. New instructions for packing cartons have been received but as yet the new supplies have not arrived.

At present there are 500 dressings in each bag and 18 bags in a carton, the inner wrappings of which are waterproof. This is necessary because upon reaching their destination, the cartons are thrown overboard and floated to shore. After each group has completed its day's work, the unused gauze is put away, the tables scrubbed, the floor swept and the room is ready for the next group.

A noticeable feature of the entire operation is the extreme quiet which prevails. The women converse from time to time in low tones and a generally pleasant atmosphere is felt by an onlooker. A good part of the time, the room is silent. Under the direction of Mrs. Waddell, we watched one afternoon group at work. Three minutes seemed to be the average time required to complete one dressing from the first to last step.

Anyone engaged in this type of work is interested of course, in what happens to the finished products after they have left Marion. The local group was gratified to learn recently that some of their dressings were being used in the South Pacific area. The four-by-four-inch bandage being made from the present shipment of gauze is used as preliminary dressings after operations, for drying incisions and for temporary drains.

Work is continuing at the center each afternoon and on Monday and Friday nights in an effort to fill the August quota. There are still places for more volunteers, particularly on Monday afternoons. Any additional volunteers wishing to aid in assuring proper care to the wounded on the battlefields of the world, may do so by going to the surgical center located on the third floor of the Elk's building on South State street. The afternoon sessions, which have places for more workers, are open each afternoon, Monday through Friday from 1 to 4 p. m.

Mr. Lyttelton Starts Something

WHATEVER provoked Oliver Lyttelton, British production minister, to tackle the subject of how and why the United States went to war must have given him courage to match his recklessness. His extemporaneous remark at an American Chamber of Commerce luncheon in London that America was not forced into the war, but provoked the Japanese into the attack at Pearl Harbor will keep Mr. Lyttelton busier dodging high explosives than a battlefield here for the next few days.

Curiously enough, it isn't the issue he raised but the way he raised it that causes fireworks. Americans admit their sympathies were never with the Axis and their partisanship never was in doubt. We admit America went to war of its own free will; most of us long since have realized the United States declared economic war when the lend-lease act was passed, without waiting for the provocation of Pearl Harbor. And we admit the Japanese had no reason to believe their differences with us in the Pacific were going to be patched up, though that does not excuse their sneak-attack on Pearl Harbor.

Nevertheless, the United States was forced into the war just as truly as Great Britain was forced into the war. It did not seek belligerency any more than Britain sought it, but had belligerency forced on it at the end of a long period of tension with other governments which sought war for many years. If Mr. Lyttelton does not understand why the distinction is important, he shouldn't be making speeches as an official of the British government.

Platform Blueprints

VARIOUS commentators recently have been busying themselves with platform blueprints for the benefit of the Republican party. It follows, of course, that if the party ever tried to accept all the good advice it can get for nothing every four years, its platforms always would be what they sometimes have been—long-winded hodge-podges of pious declarations for and against good and evil from A to Izzard.

The platform's proper place in national elections is mostly guesswork. Parties have won elections with no platforms at all; the Whigs did it in 1848. They have won elections with platforms so long that no one could read them, and they have lost elections with long platforms, too; the Republican platform in 1936 ran on and on for almost 7,500 words. There is no fixed rule about it, but in general the platform neither makes nor breaks parties. It is the candidate who gets the attention, and if what he thinks differs from what the platform says he should think, the platform is likely to be ignored, as the Democratic platform was ignored after 1932.

Platforms are taken less seriously than they used to be and are chiefly important today, not as campaign material, but as intra-party exercises. That is, by the process of proposal and adoption, the party finds out what are its common grounds and what are its unsettled controversies. With the occasional exception of planks inserted in the platform by surprise, such as would be the case if the Democrats were to go on record against multiple terms for a chief executive, there is nothing in party platforms that the informed public did not expect to find there.

This year may be an exception, but the odds are against it. The positions of both parties are so well known that their platforms are expected to be nothing but confirmation of established views—with plenty of latitude for interpretation by the candidates whose views are bound to be taken more seriously than the platforms anyway.

Congressional "Vacation"

UNTIL the Roosevelt administration's rule of continuous emergency was imposed on the federal government, congress rarely sat through the summer. Its determination to take a recess during the period of the political convention is unusual only in relation to congressional experience under the New Deal. Formerly, it would have been unusual if congressmen had thought of doing anything else.

The fact is, of course, that there is vastly more to the congressional function than continuous attention to legislative affairs in the capitol. There is, for example, the problem of keeping in touch with voters—something that may not seem important to executive department critics of congress, particularly the critics who hold appointive office, themselves. There also is the necessity of being in touch with the needs and opinions of constituents—another duty likely to be dismissed lightly by the streamlined New Deal model administrators who know what is good for the people without going to the trouble of finding out what the people think. Last but far from least in national election years, congressmen must pay close attention to their party's quadrennial convention. Being the trustees of party government, they need to be in touch with the meetings at which party government's policies and leaders are selected.

In other words, what will be called a congressional "vacation" as congress takes a recess from Washington to attend to its duties elsewhere is only a change of scenery.

Samuel Johnson published the first English dictionary in 1755.

News Behind the News

Reconversion Problem Largely Neglected Although Need for It Begins To Appear.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 22—The planned vacation of congress is ostensibly to enable the Republicans and Democrats to attend their respective conventions. But the private understanding is that not much business will be attempted before Aug. 1.

It seems the house members have been worried by the undetected inner political activities of the Hillman-CIO group and insist on getting back home, not only for fence mending, but to find who has been digging holes under their fences.

Senators also have been upset by the defeats of Holman, of Oregon, and Clark, of Idaho, although they are less worried about CIO.

These are the real reasons for the long recess.

Criticism no doubt will now pour down upon these furrowed legislative brows because they are abandoning the urgency of peacetime reconversion planning. The criticism will be superficially valid, because they are leaving behind at least one reconversion bill, although the truth is the bill could not be passed if they stayed. Too much controversy envelops it.

Need For Action Grows

The urgent need of some more directive action is increasing daily. The problem is here now, though the solution is still absent. All tabs on business show the peak of production and employment was passed six months ago and declines averaging about 3 per cent are evident in all lines.

True a happier outlook for post-war at home is beginning to be evident behind the news. The stock market always, until now, has sighed and sagged at the prospects of victory. The final grand assault, however, sent it firmly up.

Even the old arch-pessimist Joseph P. Kennedy, business seer extraordinary, made a speech in Chicago holding out hopes he formerly disdained.

Problem Defined

The problem is simple. There is $200,000,000,000 of cash in banks and savings bonds. People are short of everything and can use this money to buy.

To sustain a satisfactory and successful nation we must have a national income for the people 15 to 25 per cent below current war expenditures.

The solution must dovetail these facts into each other and provide a practical economic program for the next few years, which will not only do the job, but inspire confidence, now that it can be done.

The administration has put forward a program which has not yet convinced any one the job will be done. At the top of its setup is Mr. Byrnes in the office of demobilization, but that office is only a few desks and telephones.

Actually Byrnes, without any economic staff (unless you call Ben Cohen, the lawyer, an economist) is a peacemaker over the various conflicting government agencies.

Confusion Begins

Apparently C. E. Wilson was to take over the actual plant reconversion program, but he no sooner settled himself in that seat, than Mr. Donald Nelson announced a reconversion program (at the instance of the Truman committee, so they say). To make the confused state of affairs even more clearly discernible the army denounced the Nelson program.

The G. I. bill of rights has been passed allowing up to 52 weeks within two years of unemployment compensation at $20 a week, so that veterans could lay around for that length of time, although, of course, the problem is to get people back to work.

Only if the nation is working and producing can it hope to survive, because, after all the talk about gold, inflation, wage-hours etc., work is the only constructive economic factor which can generate a successful country.

Other details are being handled separately. Vinson preparing a price program, Marvin Jones, the farm machinery, Will Clayton the surplus property disposal, etc., but yet no one is handling the problem as a whole.

Coherence Lacking

The primary necessity to keep things going is tax revision, and while senate finance Chairman George promises early action, it is apparent that matter is not being handled in coherence with the whole.

Yet complete coherence is essential, even to the manpower problem of McNutt who has done no post-war work I have heard of. Someone is needed to plan the gradual release of men from the army with the gradual acceleration of peacetime business (this should be started now to take up the already noticeable 3 per cent slack.)

What the job needs is a top. It already has too many bottoms. The coordinator could be Mr. Byrnes, if he has not too much else to do trying to keep peace, but a better choice would be an economically conscious-organizer like Baruch or Kennedy, or someone of that type who could not only draw these loose ends together but keep them balanced with economic necessities through the post-war years.

Destiny Over Cherbourg

French Port Key to Allied Success.

GEOGRAPHY and circumstances, the twins of destiny which make and destroy towns, are fluttering uncertainly over Cherbourg, the French port and naval station which may hold the key to Allied success in Europe this summer.

Geography in this case has put Cherbourg where it is needed to accommodate the circumstances of World war II. The Allies need a great port which is close to England and as close as possible to the United States. Cherbourg fills the requirement.

Within a half mile of each other, it has extensive naval and commercial harbors. The naval harbor consists of three main basins cut out of rock with a total area of 55 acres and a minimum depth of 30 feet. Connected with the harbor are dry docks, shipbuilding yards, and a naval hospital, plus whatever installations the Germans may have made.

The commercial harbor at the mouth of the Divette river communicates with the sea by a channel 650 yards long. It consists of two parts, an outer and tidal harbor of 17½ acres, and an inner basin of 15 acres, with a depth of approximately 25 feet.

Outside these harbors is the triangular bay which forms the roadstead of Cherbourg. This is sheltered by natural surroundings on every side, except north, where it is protected by a breakwater more than two miles long. Formerly, ocean-going liners lay to within the roadstead and their passengers were taken to shore in lighters, but in 1923 the French government completed a harbor improvement project which consisted of deep dredging to enable vessels of the Normandie and Queen Mary class to tie up at docks.

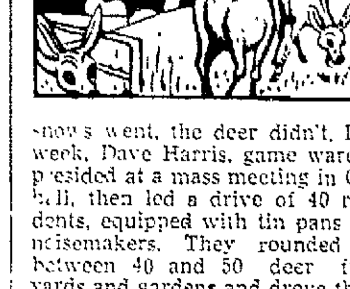

It is not known to what extent Cherbourg's port facilities have been damaged by Allied bombings. It has been both shelled and bombed at various times. Even more uncertain is the extent of the damage the Germans may be able to do to it, once they become convinced it is going to fall into Allied hands.

The fact so much of the port's importance is derived from its natural advantages, however, indicates there is no demolition which can put it out of use more than a short time. The Germans were equally intent on making the port of Naples useless, but Naples was restored with speed which offset most of their destructive intent within a relatively short time.

The port of Brest, to the south and west, ultimately may be even more important than Cherbourg due to its larger harbor area and the fact it is closer for shipping from the United States. But Brest was too far from Britain for an ideal invasion point—and too far from Germany for the beginning of an offensive. Its role in the war is destined to come later when the Allies have established themselves securely in France.

Oh, Deer! Back Again!

SPEARFISH, S. D.—Residents of this town put out free meals for Black Hills deer last winter when deep snow covered their natural feed. But when the snows went, the deer didn't. Last week, Dave Harris, game warden, presided at a mass meeting in City hall, then led a drive of 40 residents, equipped with tin pans and noisemakers. They rounded up between 40 and 50 deer from yards and gardens and drove them deep into the wilds of Spearfish canyon. Two hours later five of the deer were back feasting on succulent Victory gardens. Next day the entire herd was back.

CHICAGO "LOOP-THE-LOOP"

Today and Tomorrow

Hour at Hand for Statesmen To Begin Putting European Tangle on Firm Footing.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE are now within sight of that crucial moment of the war when the statesmen must control events or lose their power to control them. This moment will not last forever, indeed it will already have ended when the bugles give the order to cease firing.

What happens after that will be determined by the direction which Churchill, Stalin, and Roosevelt are able to give now to the civil forces in the defeated, the liberated, the neutral, and the victorious countries.

For now their influence is at its maximum because they preside over a military power which is supreme and not yet expended. Once the firing ceases, the influence of this military power will rapidly decline, and their present opportunity will never return.

For this reason a statesmanlike settlement with Finland is important, and with France and with Poland imperative.

A true settlement with Finland can be had only by the adoption in Helsinki and in Moscow of the good neighbor principle. Specifically, this would mean that an independent, democratic Finland based its security not upon the German connection, not upon being a buffer between Russia and the west, not upon the balance of power, but upon an alliance with the Soviet Union; and that the Soviet Union based its security in the northern region and towards Scandinavia upon a firm and friendly respect for Finnish independence. No other settlement will work. No other takes account of the realities and of the vital interests at stake.

Core of Problem

The core of the difficulty in reaching this settlement is that the Finnish democracy has been overawed by pro-Nazi and Fascist oligarchs who put Finland into the second Russian war and have prevented her from withdrawing. They have exploited the historic Finnish fear of Russia, the general fear of Bolshevism, and the good will of the western nations.

Americans, who are quite right in thinking that the Finnish nation is a most likable and respectable democracy, have had hidden from them the fact that Finland has been in the hands of the highly reactionary and dangerous men who, by censorship and police repression, dominated the Finnish democracy, and, there is some reason to think, even Field Marshal von Mannerheim. These men have been using our friendship for the Finnish democracy to serve their own sinister or misguided end.

The problem of the Finnish settlement is how these Finnish Fascists are to be disposed of, and it is here that Stalin's statesmanship will be put to the test. The question will be whether he takes a course which permits and encourages the Finns themselves to liquidate their Fascists, or whether he relies upon the Red Army and a puppet government to perform this necessary task.

Let Finns Clean House

The only certain way to liquidate permanently the Finnish oligarchy is to let the Finnish people themselves do it. If the Red Army does it, these defeated and discredited men will obtain a new lease of life underground, they will acquire the support which always goes to men who can claim that, whatever their mistakes, they represent the national cause against foreign domination.

It would be idle to say this if democracy in Finland were not a genuine thing. But there can be no real doubt that it is and, that being the case, the great objective of the settlement with Finland must be to strengthen its position as against the oligarchs and conspirators who subverted it.

Its position can be made as strong as it is possible now to make it by giving it the same reasonable and moderate territorial terms which the Soviet Union offered the reactionary government, and by treating the indemnity as negotiable. It cannot be in the real interest of the Soviet Union to impoverish a friendly Finland, or by harsh treatment to keep Finland unfriendly.

If the defeat of Germany is decisive, the downfall of the Finnish oligarchy is certain. After that the successful reconstruction of Finland will best insure tranquility of the Soviet borders and with all her neighbors and allies.

Though the circumstances and the issues are very different, the

Newsman Tells of Capture by Germans in Yugoslavia

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HQRS, June 9 — Stoyan Pribichevich, war correspondent for Time and Life magazines, told today the exciting story of 14 days in the hands of German parachutists, constantly facing death from both the Nazis and Yugoslav partisans.

Pribichevich was captured May 25 in the surprise attack on the town of Drvar, southwest Bosnia, in a futile attempt to capture Marshal Tito. He told his story today in a dispatch for the censored Allied press.

Pribichevich says he, Chief Petty Officer G. E. Fowler of the U. S. Navy, formerly of Los Angeles, Sergeant Max Slade of the British army film photographic unit, and John Talbot, Reuters correspondent, were captured by the parachutists early in the day and marched to the two-room house where they lived. A German officer, Pribichevich said, searched us for guns, took away our papers and hit Talbot for not raising his injured arm high enough. * * *

Shows Picture of Tito

"Then he pulled two photographs out of his speckled parachute dress and asked: 'Do you know who this is?'

"'That is Tito.'

"'Where is Tito?'" he barked. I pointed to the limestone ridge beyond the town. 'Tito was there last night, but he is not there this morning.'

"'You know you are lying,'" the officer roared.

"'Go there and find out whether I am lying.' I replied. In fact, Tito was in his grotto when the parachutists descended. His men pulled him up a rope to the summit of the steep cliff while the shooting was going on in the valley.

"He then walked over to a nearby hill and from there directed the battle that day and night."

Pribichevich and his colleagues were herded into the backyard of the partisan administration building with 20 old men, women and children. One of the two German officers in a corner of the yard asked the whereabouts of Tito and Pribichevich gave the same answer as before.

All Ordered Shot

"'Shoot?' asked a soldier, describing with a sweep of his machine gun the four of us and the civilians."

"'Ja,' answered the officer."

Pribichevich and his three companions protested they were American and British officers.

"'Sorry,' replied the officer. 'I have orders to execute anybody here and he ordered Fowler to stand up first."

As Fowler, pale but calm, took up his position, Pribichevich continues, the other German officer came across the yard and ordered the men into the cellar. A half hour later they were told only the Yugoslavs would be executed, and were marched off to a cemetery, where the Germans had established headquarters.

"A man led the four of us to the advanced positions and from there we had to carry a gravely wounded German on a stretcher across a field under partisan fire, back to the headquarters.

"The bullets sang past us. We ducked and crawled and at one point had to drop the stretcher and lie flat on the ground, but a German parachutist * * * prodded us on with his machine gun. * * *

"Then I was separated from Talbot, Fowler and Slade. I never heard what had become of them."

A German sergeant ordered Pribichevich to follow him and 15 parachutists with two heavy machine guns across a wheat field.

"The hail of bullets grew thicker and we ran across the clear spaces, taking cover from bush to bush, ditch to ditch and from fence to fence. All the time a German with a sub-machine gun behind me made sure I didn't fall out of line."

When the Germans stopped, and set up their machine guns, they ordered Pribichevich to sit beside one of the guns.

"A captured peasant and his eight-year-old boy had been kept at the German machine gun position with me. The two had to carry ammunition to the gunners. The peasant had his right ankle shot through by a partisan bullet. The terrified boy wrung his hands and implored the Germans:

"I want to go home. I want to go home."

Pleas Ignored by Nazis

"The Germans ignored him and soon a partisan machine gun shattered both his knees He was left where he had folded over in a bloody heap and in the incredible ghastliness of that beautiful day the birds continued to sing in the tree tops above the machine gun fire, the Germans, the wounded father and the mutilated boy."

At dusk, Pribichevich's captors began to retreat. Pribichevich was to lead the line and carry a wounded German.

"Now, I said to myself, is the time to * * * escape. I shuffled slowly on my knees and elbows while the shadow of a German shot past me. I rested a bit and another German ran past me.

"The wounded man on top of me groaned, got off with an agonizing effort and stumbled away into the gathering darkness. * * *

"I knew the Germans in front of me could not shoot back at me without hitting their own pals, so I only kept an eye on the silhouettes behind who might shoot or stab me. After a few more sham efforts of scuttling ahead I rested again, listened and looked back. There was not a single living German behind me.

"Then I lay flat on my back. The firing decreased and suddenly the night air quivered with the partisan war cry, 'ubiy davi rastrgray ih na komade' (kill, throttle, tear them to pieces).

"At the top of my voice I shouted in Serbo Croatian: "Comrades don't aim here, I am Pribichevich."

"Two youngsters ran up to me and asked whether I was wounded. A partisan officer arrived, shook hands with me and ordered a comrade to escort me back to the same house where I had been kept prisoner and which now was partisan headquarters."

AID FOR THE FOE. An American medical corpsman in Italy gives aid to a Nazi who, disabled by foot and leg wounds, lies on a litter in the corridor of a damaged building somewhere near Rome. Such of the Nazi's former comrades as survive are still fleeing into northern Italy.

In a score of smaller cities today ... are prancing, clowns are ..., the band fills the tent ... gay music and the daring ... men and women on the flying trapeze offer their best in a ... of thrills.

But the motorized, the truck or the mud shows—call them what you will—chug along from April to November, across the country and back, up and down. This is their year. This is the year for small circuses.

Last year showmen went back to winter quarters with their deep pockets filled with greenbacks. It was a marvelous season.

So what happened? Every showman who didn't own a circus but had ambitions, and could round up a bankroll and the necessary canvas, rope, trucks, seats and other scarce equipment got himself a show.

And now they're out. Either this is going to be one of the circus' greatest financial years or the countryside is going to be peopled by stranded circuses. The early season reports favor the former—for already the shows are playing to capacity.

The shows are good and bad in quality of performance, just as some movies are good and some are poor. All of them have that traditional circus atmosphere, the big top, the sideshow, the midway, the cookhouse, the "grease joint" (midway eating spot), the opening spectacle, the wild west show. They all have horses and dogs and ponies, most of them at least one elephant.

They load them into the trucks and trailers and move on to the next town, either immediately after their night performance or the next morning.

The performers live in their house cars. Some of the shows have "sleepers" for the band and other workers. Some have trailer compartments, three or four to a long truck-like trailer.

And virtually all are "brothers" shows. That's a circus tradition. Not more than two or three families of brothers own circuses. The Ringling family, of course; Russell Bros. was a family name. The little Mills Bros. circus actually has threee brothers. But, almost every show that started out this spring tacked "bros" on after its chosen name.

One of last year's truck shows leaped into the railroad class this spring—Dailey Bros. down Texas way. Manager Ben Davenport bought 10 railroad cars to move his tented aggregation. Cole Bros., the other railroad show, is playing the midwest after opening at Louisville, Ky., winter quarters.

Rolling the Wide Countree

And now the motorized shows on the road include: Wallace Bros., headed into the east; Mills Bros., in Ohio; Arthur Bros., and Clyde Beatty-Russell Bros. on the west coast; Al G. Kelly & Miller Bros. in Oklahoma; Globe Bros., Ray Bros., Reo Bros., Bailey Bros., Hunt Bros., Cooper Bros., Sello Bros., Roy Bros., and Dorothy Herbert, Hugo Bros., Monroe Bros., plus the brother-less titles of Cronin's Circus, the Bud Anderson, the Jay Gould and the Seils-Sterling.

Where do they come from? Wallace wintered in York, S. C., Mills in Ashland, O., Beatty-Russell in Los Angeles, Kelly & Miller and Hugo in Hugo, Okla., Bailey in Jackson, Mich., Bud Anderson in Emporia, Kas.

Along with the prospects of fine business, the shows, too, face the prospect of labor shortages. Performers are helping "put it up and take it down," carrying properties, putting up seats, driving trucks. But if those long lines of ticket-buyers outside the red wagons are a daily occurrence, no one is going to worry about the work.

The Gibbon, a small ape, is the world's finest aerial performer.

Evacuation Nurses, The Flying Heroines, Brave Battle Zones To Save Wounded Yanks

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Writer.

IN A USAAF HOSPITAL PLANE OVER THE IRISH SEA—The folks back at the French Hospital in New York would get a kick if they could see their erstwhile operating room nurse Billie Rogers now.

Brunette, pug-nosed, five feet two and very cute, she is standing up in the cabin of a twin-engine Douglas army transport plane scooting over the cold gray waves of the Irish sea.

She is dressed in regular brown zipper flying overalls and fur-lined boots. Underneath the overalls is a snappy blue uniform with slacks, blue shirt and a red necktie. Underneath all that is a sweatshirt and, she vouchsafes, nothing less than red flannel underwear.

All this gear is not without some purpose. Billie at the moment is in full charge of a dozen hefty infantrymen from Uncle Sam's Army.

Her control over them is both practical and official. They're hospital patients, being transferred by air to England, and she's an aerial nurse, with the customary pretty nurse's mastery over ailing males.

In addition, they're G. I.s., and she is a second lieutenant—in the specially selected and trained section of the Army nurse corps assigned to aerial evacuation.

In the current Big Show, squadrons of planes like this whisk wounded from the battlefront to hospitals hundreds of miles back.

More Safety and Comfort.

This aerial ambulance system makes possible giving soldiers better treatment quicker, saves them the rigors of long, rough land and sea trips, and economizes in non-combatant facilities and supplies that have to be moved up to the battlefront.

Aerial evacuation nursing is the only real forward battlezone job women are allowed in the U. S. Army.

The planes are just like peacetime passenger ships except for interior furnishings. They have no armament to speak of; there isn't room for guns or gunners. And because they are troop carrier planes, used part of the time for dropping parachutists, towing infantry-laden gliders and carrying supplies to the front, they cannot under the Geneva Convention display protective red crosses even when they have nothing but wounded aboard and are essentially the same as auto ambulances or hospital ships.

Successful Method.

They have to rely for protection on dawn and dusk flying and dodging in among trees and hills. So far they've been notably successful at it.

This routine doesn't faze the aerial nurses, who are as attractive and intelligent a group of girls as you'll find in many days' march. About half of them were airline hostesses before the war.

All were graduate nurses before the war. They got six weeks' additional special training at the Air Force school of aerial evacuation at Bowman Field, in Louisville, Ky.

The course included regular army drill and subjects like tropical medicine and survival in the jungle and desert.

After they graduated they practiced ferrying ailing soldiers by plane among hospitals in the United States, and helped train their assistants.

Each aerial nurse has an enlisted-man partner, called a "surgical technician," with a rating of T/3, equivalent to a staff sergeant.

Rural Bond Drive Pushed

paid for before they put on a uniform to do their share.

"These boys sacrificed the use of those automobiles, sacrificed their homes and sweethearts to go to war. All that we at home are asked to do is furnish the money to buy bonds that will provide equipment so the boys can win their battles. Surely, the least we can do is to provide that money and provide as much of it as we possibly can.

"As for the farmer, in spite of all his troubles such as getting workers, he's making more money on the average than he has for many years. Wheat three years ago brought 94 cents, and is bringing about 60 cents more now. Corn was 72 cents and is now about 25 cents higher. Oats were 40 cents, and have about doubled. Beans were $1.20, now they're $1.85. Hogs were $9.75 three years ago, now they're about $3.50 a hundred higher.

"I realize it costs more to provide 100 pounds of pork or 100 bushels of grain than it did three years ago, but not enough to take up all of these differences in prices. There's plenty of room in that price spread for war bonds, and it's the patriotic duty of every one of us who has a farm to see that we buy as many bonds as we can. Every man ought to think of the sacrifices our fighting boys are making before he decides how much he's willing to sacrifice to buy bonds. If they'll really let this war get under their skin a little, we'll have more than enough bonds coming in to put our share in the drive over the top."

Working this year with the rural division of the drive is a small committee of Marion men assisting Mr. Loudenslager in keeping in touch with the scattered township and community chairmen. This group consists of Carl E. Danner, James C. Woods, C. E. Sechrist, J. J. Stafford and L. E. Michel.

Also assisting Mr. Loudenslager as assistant chairman is Paul Lill of Grand Prairie township.

Nazi Rocket Bomb Now Is Considered Military Fizzle

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—From a strictly military viewpoint the Nazis greatest secret anti-invasion weapon, the highly-touted flying bomb, is a fizzle.

This is the opinion of responsible military leaders here—men who were seriously worried a few days ago over the tricks the Germans might spring in the critical hours of invasion.

Now the time for effective use of tricks has passed. Only by the proved weapons of war, tanks, guns, bombs, planes, artillery, gas, it is held, can the enemy do serious harm.

It is a question whether the Germans will ever release gas now, partly because they would have had to employ it in the first few days when beachheads were narrow if they had intended it to stop the invasion and partly because of the threat of devastating Allied reprisal.

Concern over Hitler's boasted arsenal of secret weapons was high in the weeks before invasion because no Allied leader could be sure exactly what German science had perfected.

Now it turns out, according to estimates made here, that what the Germans actually produced to make good their threats is an explosive-laden rocket plane of limited range (150 miles) and great inaccuracy—this is the weapon they relied on to break the invasion at the critical moment.

Elephants like onions as much as they do peanuts.

"My Life as an Axis Prisoner"

Allen, Captured, Says "Don't Be Silly" To Nazis Angling for War Secrets

By LARRY ALLEN

Associated Press War Correspondent, Recently Repatriated from German Prison Camp.

(This is one of three articles.)

I have been released from Nazi prisons in concentration camps, Italian dungeons in Italy and Germany. It was no picnic. I learned how precious are bread and freedom.

Before my capture off Tobruk, May 1942, I traveled 125,000 miles with the British fleet in the Mediterranean and survived three sinkings and five torpedoings.

Larry Allen

From the moment I was a captive, I started an Associated Press news service and kept it up in every concentration camp I was in. Camp bulletin boards were my outlets; I sifted the truth from Italian and German newspapers. In Italy, the truth brought solitary confinement; in Germany, threats of bread and water.

At Tobruk, as soon as I set foot ashore as a prisoner, I asked for an interview with Marshal Rommel. I was told he was too busy but the commandant promised me my release if I would disclose the disposition of the British fleet. My reply was, "Don't be silly!"

Taken to Derna, I went without food or drink for 36 hours, finally was given a bowl of putrid macaroni. Four days later I was flown to Bari in Italy.

All Ships "Sunk"

There began four months in a valley of death. Behind barbed wire I lived with lice-infested Indian soldiers whose legs were like stilts, their emaciated bodies hideously distorted by the swellings of malnutrition. In those four months I never saw a bar of soap, had a towel or a pair of shoes. I wore only a torn, thin khaki naval uniform. My only food was a small slice of yellowish liquid called "pumpkin soup" and a little roll of hardtack bread that fitted into the palm of my hand.

The commandant said all Allied ships were being sunk and there were no Red Cross food parcels getting through.

OFFER REFUSED—Captured while on a commando raid on German positions near Tobruk, he was denied a request to interview the "desert fox," Marshal Rommel, and he scoffed at offer of freedom in return for information.

I constantly protested for my release as a non-combatant war correspondent. Although my fingers were so swollen by chilblains it was difficult to hold a pen, I made a news bulletin board, translated Italian newspapers and ran a full-fledged AP news service for the thousands of prisoners who passed through the camp.

After four months I was transferred to Chieti, one of Mussolini's political internment camps, converted to house American and British war prisoners. A 20-foot high brick enclosure stood before rows of barbed wire.

One small spigot was the only source of drinking water for 1,400 men. They had to stand hours in line to get a drop. There was a single cold water faucet for baths, but it functioned only a few minutes each day. The prisoners, jammed like sardines into red brick barracks, slept on wooden box slats and sackcloth filled with straw.

The news service went out in Chieti as fast as I could hear it over the Italian loudspeaker. The Italians objected repeatedly to the unvarnished, factual AP style of news presentation and finally banned my bulletin boards. Then, I gave verbal broadcasts. Finally news became so important with the purge of the Fascist party and the last hours of a crumbling Italy, I put the boards back.

Special Punishment

The Italian high command ordered the commandant to imprison me for seven days in a special punishment room. That was last August 27.

After 48 hours, I sent the commandant a note: "I find it impossible to believe that I am being punished for writing the truth in a country which especially cherishes that characteristic." The following morning I was released to the comparative freedom of the camp.

News flashes flew thick and fast in Chieti, Bari, Bologna and near Milan in the early days of September, for I had trained young British officers to write the American way and to carry on the service in whatever camp they were in.

I spent five heavenly weeks in a British officer's internment camp at Fontanellata, near Milan. There in an Italian orphanage, I slept on spring beds, nuns did my laundry and for the first time as a prisoner I ate from white tablecloths and sat on chairs. I entered a protest to Gen. Mario Toscani, commanding the Milan district, on the deplorable conditions at Chieti. I was sent back there myself.

Club Co-Ed Begins Busy Summer; First Vacation Dance Set for July 8

July 8 is the date set for the first summer dance in the recently opened Club Co-Ed, it was reported at a council meeting of the club Monday night. Details will be announced after the council which is composed of 30 members representing Harding, St. Mary and Edison Junior High schools, discusses plans with other members.

Two committees were appointed at the Monday night meeting with the following taking charge of publicity: Joan Frederick, Grace Criser, Patricia Custck and Walter Bartlett. Program committee includes: Jim Burgess, Janet Stine and George Paulson.

Arrangements have already been started to engage Dick Zahn's orchestra for the dance evening.

Since the opening of the club rooms a few weeks ago, new supplies have been added and all equipment, with the exception of a carbonated water dispenser, has been installed. To date, the youngsters have been using bottled water at the soda fountain.

Over 500 Members

Mrs. W. D. McGee, hostess, reported that the club membership now is past the 500 mark. Sophomores, who this year became eligible to join, are signing up rapidly.

Because so many of the members are employed in either whole or part time work, many of them in war industries, a new schedule for hours is now on trial. Monday has always been a closed day for the club, Mrs. McGee said, and now the attendance in the afternoon since school closed has dropped considerably so only evening hours are being observed for the present. Hours are from 8 to 10:30 p. m. each evening with the closing hour extended to 11:30 on Friday and Saturday nights. She said this schedule so far has benefited the majority of the members.

There is a waiting list of about 10 members who have volunteered for duty and the working staff usually numbers two with three being pressed into service on extra busy nights. A weekly schedule is drawn up by Mrs. McGee for the workers and all receive pay for the hours on duty. Since all customers must get their orders from the soda bar, there is no need for a waiter or waitress on the floor.

Attendance

Mrs. McGee estimated that since the club opened, evening attendance has averaged about 250 persons. She said the record-playing machine is the main source of attraction and from the time the club opens the music is heard almost without break until closing time. Approximately 250 records, owned exclusively by the club, are used on the machine with members making the changes themselves.

Both Mrs. McGee and the Y's Men's Service club, which sponsored the project, have been gratified with the response to the new club rooms. All members have observed the no-smoking and no-drinking rules religiously, officials said.

Find 13 Canadian War Prisoners Shot by Nazis

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 22—The London Daily Mirror's war correspondent said in a dispatch from France today that 13 Canadian prisoners had been lined up and shot by the Germans in a French village now in allied hands.

The correspondent, George McCarthy, said the men had died with the photographs of "their loved ones—their wives, sweethearts or children"—clinched in their hands and that it was clear the Canadians had "been lined up to die."

He said the bodies were discovered in the grounds of a chateau in the village of Audrieu south of the Bayeux-Caen railway line.

The origin of the phrase "dog days" goes back to ancient Egypt.

"HANGAR PILOT." Peggy Ritchie (above), former aerobatic dancer, proved so adept at scrambling around wings, tail and nose surfaces of A-20 attack planes at the Douglas Aircraft company plant at Santa Monica, Calif., that she has been given a rare job among feminine mechanics, that of "hangar pilot." As a "hangar pilot," she makes final "close-ups" on wing sections and other adjustments from precarious perches, besides testing all control cables and hydraulic operation of landing gear.

AIR RAIDS

against the reich capital. It was disclosed that some of the fighters as well as some of the heavy bombers made the shuttle flight between Britain and the Soviet Union.

While German flying bombs continued droning through English skies over night, the mounting weight of bombs dropped on the Pas De Calais area indicated the Allies were making progress in their campaign against the launching mechanisms for these projectiles.

East of the Cherbourg peninsula battle area bombing was concentrated on the disrupted and choked railway and highway net work over which the Germans are striving to push reinforcements. Over an area of several hundred square miles British and American fighter-bombers battered bridges, railroad yards tracks, trains, barges and oil tanks at 20 different places. Air bases at St. Quentin and Dreux also were hit.

Opening of the new Britain to Russia shuttle route brought with it the prospect of still greater raids against Germany.

A shuttle operation already has been established between the U. S. S. R. and Allied bases in Italy, and the new use of eastern bases by British-based aircraft multiplies the possibilities for bewildering coordinated air attacks against the reich.

The Russian terminal also will give additional help in beating the weather's intermittent interruption of operations. Attacking forces operating from British, Mediterranean and Russian bases can cover virtually all of Germany and most of its occupied territory.

The raid yesterday was the Americans' twelfth on Berlin. It cost 43 U. S. bombers and 15 fighters. Forty-nine German fighters were knocked down, 20 by the fighters and 29 by the bombers' guns.

The attacking fleet bombed an airplane engine factory in the Berlin suburb of Basdorf, the Berlin railroad yards and factories. Although there were some clouds, most combat wings bombed visually and reported good results.

U. S. Mustangs Write Aerial History

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—American Mustang fighters wrote a new page in aerial history yesterday, it was disclosed officially today, by flying all the way from Britain to bases in Russia as escort for U. S. heavy bombers which carried out the first shuttle attack on Berlin.

One group of fighters was led by Col. Don Blakeslee of Fairport Harbor, Ohio, a veteran Eagle squadron pilot.

The flight may or may not have set a distance record for the fighters, depending on how far beyond the Russian border the bases lie. The border itself is some 900 miles from Britain. American fighters have gone several hundred miles further on round trips escorting bombers to Berlin and targets farther east in Germany.

Crew of U. S. Navy Ship Offer To Buy Off War Plant Strikers

Sailors Send Collection of Pennies To Help "Pay Wage Increases for Money Hungry" Workers.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 22—The Associated Press is in receipt of the following communication by registered airmail, marked as coming from the U. S. S. Coos Bay, a seaplane tender, and stamped "passed by naval censor":

U. S. S. COOS BAY (AVP-25)
C/O FLEET POST OFFICE
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.
16 JUNE 1944

The Associated Press
Editorial Department
San Francisco, Calif.

Sirs:

We the crew of the U. S. S. Coos Bay, which consists mainly of survivors of other naval ships or veterans of major naval engagements, and all who have seen action not once but many times and who, while on this cruise, have not had a liberty for one full year, feel that we can do more than fight and even give our lives if necessary for our country. We are willing to help pay the wage increase from our meager pay that money-hungry strikers are demanding if they will just continue to produce the implements necessary so that we can end this war. We have seen war — and we have it.

We have chosen you as our agent or go-between to represent us in our campaign to 'buy off' the present strikers of the Wright Aircraft Corporation with the money we have collected from our small crew: a total of 41,200 pennies.

Please implore them to end their strike and accept our offer to help pay their wage increase which they feel is more important than our lives.

Ask them not to strike in the future but, instead, to let the men in the war zone know of their dissatisfaction and they will gladly chip in each month to save them from starvation so that they may continue to produce arms for us to defeat their enemy as well as ours, and so that we may come home soon to see the ones we love, our sons and daughters whom we have never seen and our wives and mothers who haunt us with memories day and night; also to see our country for which we are willing to die—yes—and to see you strikers; do you want to see us?

Out here we are close to our 'foreign' enemies and can properly deal with them; our enemies at home we cannot reach. Therefore, in desperation, we can think of nothing but to offer our money to 'buy' them back to work; this money having been earned honestly and in the belief that our efforts were the salvation and protection of those who are striking against us.

THE CREW OF THE U. S. S. COOS BAY.

P. S. If the Wright strike is over, just choose another. There are always plenty at hand.

The money accompanying this letter, all in U. S. paper currency, has been forwarded to the secretary of the navy, James V. Forrestal. It comprised three $100 bills, five of $20 denomination, one $10 and one $2 bill.

At Washington, The Associated Press sought comment from Forrestal and R. J. Thomas, national president of the United Automobile Workers, members of which union were involved in an unauthorized strike at the plant of the Wright Aeronautical Co. at Lockland, O. Comment also was sought from local officers of the union.

Thomas said at Detroit May 27 that "public opinion has become inflamed against our union" (because of unauthorized strikes in war plants) and added:

"The UAW-CIO today faces one of the greatest crises in its history. On the outcome of this crisis will depend the possibilities of our survival in the post-war period. The test is this: are the membership of our union and its leaders willing to abide by the democratic decisions and mandates of our constitution and conventions."

MRS. KAKIUCHI OF LIMA DIES HERE

Buddhist Funeral Services To Be Held Saturday.

Mrs. Mildred Haruye Kakiuchi, 29, wife of Toshikazu Kakiuchi, Lima gardner, died in Marion City hospital at 11:40 p. m. Tuesday following an illness of two weeks. She was making her home with a brother, Wilson Ishida, at 1087 East Center street, when she became ill.

Born April 1, 1915 in Fresno, Calif., she was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kanejiro Ishida. Nov. 10, 1934 she was married to Mr. Kakiuchi. A resident of Marion three weeks, she lived before that in Lima where she came with her husband two months ago from California. She was a member of the Buddhist church at Fresno and of the Women's Poetry club.

Survivors besides the husband and the brother here include the father who lives in Arkansas and two other brothers, William T. Ishida of near Lima and Cpl. Samuel Ishida of Ft. McClellan, Ala.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. in the Merle H. Hughes mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue by G. Kono, a Buddhist priest from Arkansas. The body will be cremated at Columbus.

Mrs. Kakiuchi's father, a California farmer, has been in an Arkansas Japanese relocation camp since the outbreak of war. He has been a resident of this country for 40 years and all his children were born here. His son at Lima also was in the relocation camp for a time, but were permitted to leave there about a year ago to work as a gardener near Lima.

An interesting sidelight of the family's experiences in this country is that Mrs. Kakiuchi's mother, although she lived in this country long enough to rear her children, always longed to return to Japan. She finally went back to Japan and died there. The children remained in this country with their father. Wilson Ishida, one of the children, has been making his home in Marion about six years, employed at a hatchery as a baby chick sexer.

cabinet was reformed, and could ask Moscow for armistice conditions.

Comes On Invasion Anniversary

The new Russian offensives were lalunched on the third anniversary of the German invasion of the Soviet Union, and apparenily were aimed at clearing the Murmansk- Leningrad railway of Finnish forces.

One of the thrusts was launched along the Svir river, between Lakes Ladoga and Onega (Onezhskoe), approximately 150 to 200 miles northeast of Viipuri. The other was started about 100 miles further north, above Lake Onega, and cracked Finnish lines east of Medvezhegorsk, at the northwestern tip of the lake.

Plunging beyond the burning ruins of Viipuri, other Red army units were within 120 miles of the Finnish capital of Helsinki after taking more than 50 additional places, the Soviet communique added.

Menace 7 Enemy Divisions

The new drives menaced seven division of German troops garrisoned in northern Finland as protection for the metal mines located there.

Meanwhile the Soviet information bureau, in a review on the third anniversary of the German attack on Russia, said more than 7,800,000 Germans have been killed or captured in the three years of fighting, compared with 5,300,000 Russians killed, missing or captured.

German losses totaled 70,000 tanks, 50,000 airplanes and more than 90,000 pieces of artillery, while Russian losses were 49,000 tanks, 30,126 airplanes and 48,000 guns, the bureau said.

STOCKHOLM, June 22—The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet said today the Russians have offered to cease war against Finland if the Finns accept the borders that were settled upon in 1940 and give the Red army temporary freedom of movement through Finland, certain airfields and bases on the Aland islands on a temporary basis.

Japs Reported Trying To Avoid Battle at Sea

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for DeWitt Mackenzie)

Latest reports from the Pacific indicate the Japanese fleet, quite properly from its standpoint, may have evaded battle again.

Rambert James, with the American fleet off Saipan, says the Japanese have maneuvered themselves out of the way, doing much to dampen yesterday's enthusiasm in naval circles which produced statements of exhilaration over prospects for a showdown.

James, an AP war correspondent, says Monday's long-distance air duels had provided the only action up to Wednesday.

It is too early to be positive, but this would seem to eliminate the prospect of a battle in the area where it was originally expected, the Japanese either running away or maneuvering for a better spot. The former seems the more likely.

No False Optimism

Forrestal, King and Nimitz are not men to go off half-cocked. Their enthusiasm surely means that we had and have the power for any job in the far Pacific.

That the Japnaese would voluntarily accept battle on such terms is improbable. The fact that the fleets were hundreds of miles apart would have given the enemy ample time to run for Manila or for home. Had both fleets intended to accept battle, they were less than 24 hours steaming time apart.

Which brings us to the question of why the enemy was out there at all.

Well, the Japanese have been saving their fleet for a long time. Recently, when an allied task force made its appearance in the Bay of Bengal, three Japanese aircraft carriers regularly based at Singapore were reported to have sold out for home.

Bluff Is Japanese Defense

We have had reports that Truk and Palau were never the bastions which they were cracked up to be. There are reports of no more strength in the Philippines than throughout the rest of Japan's hastily snatched perimeter defenses. Eugene Burns, Associated Press correspondent who has covered the circuit from Attu to the South Seas and up to Sumatra, says the whole Japanese idea of a defense perimeter has been a bluff.

If this is true, and if the expected Far Pacific battle does fail to develop now, we have some excuse to believe that the strikes across the central Pacific were getting too close to Manila to suit the enemy, and that he was streaking for home leaving his land garrison to fight the delaying action, as he has done ever since Guadalcanal.

He might have been fishing for opportunity, in case his island forces were able to weaken Admiral Spruance, but if so he was surely playing with dynamite.

Sewage Disposal Plant Heads Hold State Meeting in Marion

"Garbageless" Cities, Elimination of Waste, Mosquitoes and Flies Foreseen in Talks by Engineers.

Approximately 150 Ohio sewage treatment plant superintendents and municipal authorities interested in sewage treatment attended sessions of the eighteenth annual meeting of the Ohio Conference on Sewage Treatment held yesterday and this morning at Hotel Harding. Sessions were concerned with discussion of problems confronting plant operators now and with glimpses into the post war period.

J. R. Turner of Mansfield, present vice chairman of the conference was elected president in a business session which took place yesterday morning. Other new officers are D. D. Heilefinger of Ashland, vice chairman, and R. D. Barnes of Bowling Green, secretary-treasurer.

A round table discussion on present-day sewage disposal problems was featured in an afternoon session. E. H. Barton, chief operator of the sewage treatment plant at Findlay, spoke on laboratory practice as carried out according to "Standard Methods," a book outlining standard procedures to be followed in laboratory experiment. He also gave personal experiences in devising short cuts in experiments. Comments from other members were contributed in the discussion.

Akron Man Speaks

"Sprinkling Filters," was discussed by T. C. Schaetzle, engineer-chemist of the Akron sewage treatment plant. He explained difficulties confronted when nozzles become clogged and the prevention of filter flies by use of flooding and addition of chlorine.

"Sludge Drying," was the subject of G. E. Flower, superintendent of the Southerly Sewage Disposal plant at Cleveland. He explained methods of sludge incineration and difficulties encountered. After enumerating several problems he gave remedies developed at the Cleveland plant.

One of the most pertinent subjects on the round table discussion was of maintenance which was taken by H. Bloem, chief operator of the Elyria sewage treatment plant who talked on methods which can be used to preserve present piping systems.

The last of five divisions was the discussion given by J. R. Turner, superintendent of the Mansfield sewage treatment plant who discussed "Activated Sludge." Mr. Turner explained varying amounts of air demanded by different types of sewage. He also explained methods of aeration of sludge.

Dinner Session

Members held a dinner meeting last night at which R. F. Snyder, present chairman of the organization, presided. John V. Ruth, city safety-service director, extended a welcome to members in place of Mayor Harry L. Dowler who was out of the city.

Principal speaker was Morris M. Cohn, editor of "Sewage Works Engineering," and sanitary engineer of the city of Schenectady, N. Y. Looking into the post-war era, Mr. Cohn took the theme of his talk from the unfinished business of community sanitation. He pointed out the fact that many things can be done from the standpoint of sanitation to improve man's environment before some of the dreams of plastics and helicopters can come true. "There are many basic jobs to be done to make it possible for man to continue to live," he stated.

Mr. Cohn outlined several new fields of activity for the sanitary engineer, among them new activities in regard to processing water supplies. "In the past we have taken dangerous material; in the future we will add materials to improve public health," he said. Among additions to the water supply will be fluorine which will prevent tooth decay. According to Mr. Cohn, we may some day drink our vitamins which will be added to water.

"Garbageless" Cities

He predicted a "garbageless" city in which food is no longer taken to garbage cans in the back yard, but will be ground in an apparatus at the kitchen sink and carried off through sewers. "This is really not a dream," Mr. Cohn explained, "as 30,000 American homes are already equipped with this device."

Other things in the future are disposal of municipal waste through pneumatic tubes to power plants where the rubbish will be burned to provide energy to produce electric power. He predicted the destruction of the fly and mosquito. The March of Dimes will do no good until the march to the garbage can is stopped," he stated. Freedom from rats and pollen were also foretold by Mr. Cohn.

Discussion in this morning's session centered around present problems. "Blue Print Now," was the subject of a talk by E. L. Filby, field director of the National Committee on Water and Sewage Works development. Fred G. Nelson of Chicago, J. D. Walker and W. A. Sperry of Aurora, Ill., also spoke. The meeting was adjourned at noon. Many members were expecting to stay in Marion this afternoon to tour Marion's sewage treatment plant which will have been in operation 20 years July 1.

In connection with the meeting E. S. Hoyt, assistant engineer of the state department of health, will inspect the Marion plant, making suggestions as to improvement and post-war planning.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 22—Will Rogers' widow, whom he courted on a bicycle and whom he called "my first sweetheart," is dead.

Mrs. Betty Blake Rogers, 65, succumbed at the Rogers ranch home in Santa Monica canyon last night. Relatives said she had been ill for several weeks, and that she suffered a severe attack of influenza in Washington, D. C., during the winter.

Rogers, whose crinkly smile and quick wit won him fame as humorist and philosopher, was killed with flier Wiley Post in an Alaska plane crash in 1935. A month ago today, his body was entombed at Will Rogers memorial, in Claremore, Okla., his home town. Mrs. Rogers' body likewise will be interred there.

BUCYRUS COUNCIL HAS BUSY SESSION

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 22—In a busy session Tuesday night Bucyrus city council laid preliminary plans looking toward the establishment of an auxiliary fire department north of the Pennsylvania railroad, received bids for preliminary engineering for the proposed improvements to the water supply and distribution system, accepted a new rate as proposed by the Ohio Fuel Gas company and received an invitation to join in planning for a reception for the Liberty ship to bear the city's name to be launched in California in September.

Council President Ed Carter named an investigating committee, launching the movement for a new auxiliary fire department upon receipt of a communication from Harold Smith, Bucyrus manufacturer, asking that the city take adequate steps to provide fire protection for manufacturers and citizens, and also city hospital, north of the railroad tracks. Breakdowns which are blocking all available crossings to the north part of the city are a fire hazard to those establishments and citizens, north of the track, Smith told council in his communication.

Council was invited to join with fraternal and patriotic and civic organization in planning sponsorship for the ship now nearing completion at Richmond, Calif., at a cost of $3,979,669. The ship will bear the name of Bucyrus. A meeting is scheduled for Monday night at the American Legion home at which plans will be discussed.

tured the northern exit it was apparent Gen. Bradley was striking with might and main at the German garrison of the two prongs of the peninsula.

With reports from the front lagging for certain developments, the supreme command announced that advance American patrols already may have reached the sea beyond St. Croix-Hague on the west and La Teno on the east—advances that would cut off German forces and forts on Cap De La Hague on the west and on point Barfleur on the east.

In the close-up fight for Cherbourg the French-built concrete forts—Querville and Du Roule—about 1,500 yards from the prize harbor—were proving formidable obstacles to the attacking American troops. The fighting apparently raged all around the town, in the suburbs and possibly inside the town itself.

Nazis Prepare for Blow

(The German radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, began preparing the Nazi home front for the loss of the port, speaking of how long it could hold out against overwhelming attacks.)

Tse Vichy radio this morning said warships offshore were supporting the Americans, but supreme headquarters said it had no knowledge of such a bombardment.

The Germans still were rushing to destroy everything in the port and city which would be of use to the allies.

Reports here said Cherbourg's airfield appeared to be within the allied grasp if not already taken. This would be the first sizeable field captured in the beachhead drive and, when repaired, would permit use of medium bombers.

A dispatch last night from Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead sent at 9:31 p. m. last night said the doughboys had "encountered the core of the enemy's last line of defenses—blockhouses and concrete pillboxes—and for the past 12 hours had been probing enemy positions and getting ready for the final thrust."

Whitehead expressed the view that there would be little chance for the enemy to make a "Stalingrad" of the city because the Americans have vastly-superior hitting power on land, sea and in the air.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—While fighting raged at Cherbourg Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made clear to the Germans today that they could not pay attention alone to the defense of that port.

In a radio warning the allied commander-in-chief told the fishermen of Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France to stay in port until 9 p. m. June 25. This was the second seven-day extension of the original supreme command warning to fishermen.

Letters from Our Readers

FOR PEACE ON HOME FRONT.

Editor of The Star: I can truthfully say I have read every "Letter from Our Readers" in the Marion Star since the first one, criticizing the Liquor association.

I, myself, am not in favor of liquor, but are we all so little and narrow minded as to squabble over something that I am sure was made in the best way the Liquor association could have. Everyone has a right to pray.

Many of you might think I have no one in service. But I have an uncle, a brother-in-law and six step-brothers in the service of our country.

Also, my other brother-in-law just came home a few weeks ago with a leg off. His age is 21. He has a young wife and a baby. Yes, you will say, what is a leg compared to a life. I'll admit, not near as much. But it is a great handicap.

My other brother-in-law I spoke of enlisted and left two small boys and a baby girl behind. Do you think they want to hear us squabbling? Now do you think these other boys of all races and creeds are fleeting so that they might come home to a petty squabble among their friends? I think and know not.

Also, my own husband had a hand injured, which will be crippled the rest of his life. He was a soldier on the home front.

All of us have suffered from this war and more will suffer as the days go by. But, let's try in all fairness to our boys to keep peace at home.

One more thing. Had some of your boys names been left out in honoring those who have paid the supreme sacrifice I'll wager you would have been hurt again.

Isn't the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Well, then let's do so and quit this striking out at each other. For probably some one, too, in the Liquor association has given his son, or sons, to our great country.

From one who hates liquor as much as the next one.

MRS. HOWARD MILLISOR,
433 Uncapher Avenue.

U. S. NEWSMAN MISSING

NEW YORK, June 22—Editors of Newsweek said today that the war department had reported William C. Shenkel, of Silver Springs, Md., a war correspondent for the magazine, was missing from the B-29 raid over Japan. Shenkel, 38, was an observer on one of the planes from which a report has been received, Newsweek said.

Close Feature Race and $239.40 Daily Double Top Harness Circuit Car

Wayne Smart Scores 13th Win of Local Meeting.

OUTSTANDING in last night's Little Grand Circuit harness racing card at the county fairground were:

1. The closest feature race of the first 12 nights of the meeting, the three heats in the highlight $1,000 Schaffner Furniture Co. stake for 15 class pacers being won by as many different horses.

2. The consecutive heat triumphs of Hava Hanover, highly ranked four-year-old pacer, in the $300 28 pace.

3. The eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth heat wins for Wayne Smart, crafty Delaware driver, who now is in the lead in the vying for the meet steering championship.

4. The biggest daily double of the meeting thus far—$239.40.

Ray Abbe, black gelding driven by Val Grandstaff of Cardington was recognized as the winner of the feature race, the Schaffner Furniture Co. stake inasmuch as he finished on top in the final summary of the three heats. Ray Abbe won the middle heat after placing second in the opener and came back in the final session to come in show. Queen Day, a black mare piloted by Ernie Smith was credited with second place in the event, only a point behind Ray Abbe. Queen Day was a surprise victor in the last heat and returned $18.20 for a $2 straight ticket. Al Silk, whose win in the first heat of the feature event was in a large measure responsible for the unusually high daily double price, came in third in the final tabulations for the race as a whole.

Wayne Smart didn't have much of a tussle on his hands in winning the second race with Hava Hanover, a brown stallion owned by Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus. This horse, which was among the best in this section as a two and three year old, displayed marked supremacy over the other five starters in the 28 pace last night. He took the first heat by a length, the second by three and swung down the stretch in championship fashion to win the last heat by a length.

Smart now has 13 victories to his credit in the local meeting, which runs through Saturday night at the county fairgrounds. Marion's Hugh Bell, who won last night's initial race, the $300 21 trot with Guy E. Watts, shoved his win total to 11, third among drivers in the Marion meet. Harry Fitzpatrick's 12 wins take second laurels at the present counting.

Big Daily Double

The daily double last night was a new high for the meeting, outranking a $140 D. D. price in the first nights of the Frank Foster's gala program. The daily double paid on Hava Hanover and Al Silk, winners of the first heats of the second and third races respectively.

Hava Hanover now has four wins in the Marion meeting, having chalked up a first place finish in $300 24 pace last week. Guy E. Watts has five triumphs. Bell coaxed him to straight heat wins in the first division of a $300 26 trot.

The top-billed race last night, the 15 pace, was one of those events in which the outcome was in doubt right up to the finish of the final heat. Al Silk won the first heat after taking the lead about 10 yards from the half-way pole and maintaining it for the remainder of the course, despite some annoying pressing by other entrants in the seven-horse field. Armada Wood, driven by Foy Funderburk, one of the decided favorites in the race, snatched the lead in the backstretch of the first turn from Ray Abbe, who had gone ahead at the start. However, Al Silk soon took front position and nothing was to stop him until he had passed the finish line a victorious horse. He returned some fancy prices too, $51.80, $26.40 and $7.80.

Favored Ray Abbe Wins

Ray Abbe was favored to win the second heat and did. He led all the way, pacing the field by a length at the half, which was clocked in 1:05. He led by a length in the backstretch but this was shaved to a half-length going into the stretch by Queen Day. Ray Abbe shaking off all threats came through to win by a length and a half.

Ray Abbe appeared as if he was off to another convincing win in the final heat but Queen staged a Garrison finish to snare first spot. Ray Abbe led by the margin of a length from the start until the last 200 yards of the homestretch. The Bert Abbe-sired horse owned by Arlo Edwards of Galena showed the wear and tear of a hard-run race and faltered in the stretch. Queen Day whizzed through to win by a length with Armada Wood second and Ray Abbe a comparatively poor third.

Ford Spencer led at the start of the opening heat of the card-launching race last night but Guy E. Watts stepped high and fast to go ahead in the upper turn of the first circuit of the half-mile track. Guy E. Watts led by five big lengths at the half and in the backstretch by the same margin. This advantage was whittled to three lengths in the upper turn and to two going into the final stretch. However, Guy E. Watts won by two lengths over Ford Spencer, who got the photo finish's verdict for second position over Edgar Hanover. Doubtless, Guy E. Watts would have captured the third heat, had he not broken shortly after Starter Steve Phillips volubly let loose with "Go." Edgar Hanover led for the

CUBS HAVE YET TO DECISION CARDINALS IN 1944 CAMPAIGN

St. Louis Club Wins 11 Out of 11 Contests from the Clawless Cubs.

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs are headed for a major league futility record, unless they do better in the next 11 games against St. Louis' Cardinals than they did in the first 11.

The Cubs and Cards have met 11 times. The result: Cards—won 11, lost 0; Cubs—won 0, lost 11.

Back in 1937 the Cincinnati Reds lost 21 of 22 to Pittsburgh, and in 1927 the St. Louis Browns had the same record against the New York Yankees, but the clawless Cubs are half on the road to erasing both marks.

Manager Charlie Grimm used six pitchers and six pinch hitters against the Cards yesterday, but lost 6-4 and 7-2. George Munger won his ninth against one defeat, in the opener, although he needed late help from Mort Cooper. Harry Brecheen took his third straight from the Cubs in the finale. The double win increased the Cards' lead over Pittsburgh to eight and one half games, their biggest margin of the season.

The New York Giants drubbed Brooklyn 11-2 for their 18th triumph in the last 24 games, to take over third place in the National league. Bill Voiselle gained his ninth triumph, holding the Brooks to six hits. Mel Ott scored his 1,741st run to break his tie with Hans Wagner and set a new National league record.

After eight scoreless innings, Cincinnati scored in the ninth, but the Pittsburgh Pirates counted two in their half to take the game, 2-1.

The Philadelphia Athletics made it three in a row over Boston, 5-2, as Dick Siebert drove in three runs with a double and single, and Jesse Flores outpitched Clem Hausmann.

New York and Washington divided a double header, the champions taking the first 4-3, after trailing 1-3 until the seventh. The Nats took the second 6-4, with a five run first inning at the expense of Southpaw Joe Page. Milo Candini held his former teammates to six hits to win his third game for the Senators.

The St. Louis Browns increased their American league lead to two and one-half games over Boston's Red Sox by trouncing the Chicago White Sox 11-2 behind Nelson Potter's seven-hit pitching. Gene Moore and Vernon Stephens led the attack on two Chicago hurlers with three hits each, including a homer apiece.

Rookie Paul O'Dea batted "four for four" as Cleveland defeated Detroit in a slugfest, 9-7.

The Boston-Philadelphia double header was postponed because of rain.

RED BARNES

Red Barnes, 40 is the manager of the Middletown Red Sox, considered serious contenders for the pennant in the Ohio State league. Barnes, former member of Wallace Wade's Alabama Crimson Tide football teams, has had wide experience as a manager in minor leagues throughout the South and North. In 1939, his Danville, Va. team won the Bi-State league flag and in 1941 the championship in the Canadian-American loop was captured by his Oneonta club. Barnes started his playing career with Birmingham of the Class A-1 Southern Association in 1927 and later played with the Chicago White Sox and Washington Nationals. He made two trips to the Rose Bowl with the top-notch Alabama grid squads.

"Red" Bailey Credited with Both Wins As Marion Sweeps Twin Bill from Giants

Special to The Star

SPRINGFIELD, June 21—Red Bailey, Marion curve-ball artist, received credit for both wins in tonight's double header against the Springfield Giants, holding Springfield hitless for five innings and scoreless for six frames he let down in the seventh and Springfield collected three doubles and a single for its three runs.

In the second game Crowe for Marion and Listzman engaged in a mound duel for six innings with each team collecting two runs. In the top of the seventh, doubles by Warren Blunt and Bill Broukal together with a single by Crowe and two Springfield errors pushed four runs across for the Grover Hartley crew apparently sewing up the game.

In the last half of the inning, however, Springfield scored one run and loaded the bases with two men out before Bailey was rushed in to save the game. He was greeted by two solid hits which drove in three runs to tie up the game. In the eighth singles by Labanara, Vickery and Smith pushed the winning run across for Marion. Bailey silenced the Springfield bats in the last half of the eighth to obtain credit for his second game.

KENNEDY TO HURL FOR TRIBE IN TIGER TILT

DETROIT, June 22 — The Cleveland Indians, displaying a full-blown aversion to the American league basement, called upon the right arm of veteran Vernon Kennedy to make it three-in-a-row over Detroit's Tigers.

After the Tribe took the second game of the series 9 to 7 by sheer batting power yesterday, Manager Lou Boudreau gave Kennedy the nod to oppose youthful Rufus Gentry, Tiger right-hander who last week handed Cleveland its first 1944 shutout.

Kennedy has recorded two victories against three losses to date, compared to Gentry's three wins and five defeats.

Outfielder Paul O'Dea collected four singles and a walk for a perfect day at bat to pace the Indians yesterday. First Baseman Mickey Rocco hit his fourth home run and two singles. The round tripper in the ninth sewed up the game for Cleveland.

Rudy York clouted a three-run homer in the first inning, giving Detroit a 4 to 2 lead, but the Indians gathered four runs in the fourth and remained in front thereafter. The Tribe amassed 14 hits off five Tiger hurlers.

Washington is sharing last-place position with Cleveland—both 5½ games behind the league-leading St. Louis Browns.

ARMSTRONG DEFEATS UNKNOWN LATSIOS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—Henry Armstrong, one of the biggest little men in ring history, vowed again today to continue fighting "as long as I can win—and make money out of the game."

"I like boxing, and apparently the fans like me," he said. "I'm going to stay in the game until they quit paying to see me. When the gate receipts drop, then I'll know it's time to quit."

Henry decisioned Nick Latsios, an almost unknown Greek-American lad from Alexandria, Va., over a 10-round route last night. About 8,000 spectators paid to see the bout. In previous appearances here and elsewhere he's attracted far more of the ring faithful.

Armstrong, the only man who ever held three world championships at the same time, currently is campaigning to regain the welterweight crown he once held along with those of the featherweight and lightweight divisions.

Red Bird Wyrostek Out To Grab A. A. Bat Mark Tonight

By The Associated Press

Johnny Wyrostek, slugging Columbus outfielder who is pushing Milwaukee's Hal Peck for batting leadership in the American association, will be out to set a new league consecutive game hitting record for the season tonight.

The 6 foot 2 inch, 24-year-old clouter has hit safely in 19 straight contests, equalling the mark established by Peck, whose .420 average topped the circuit in the last official figures released. Wyrostek trailed with a .377.

Although his team dropped a 5-4 decision to St. Paul last night, the Red Bird gardener kept his batting streak intact by cracking a homer and a single in three trips. During his 19 game spree he has collected 38 hits for 65 bases in 75 times at bat for a fancy .507 average.

Meanwhile Peck went hitless in three official efforts as Milwaukee boosted its lead to six games by downing Indianapolis 7 to 5.

ANYTHING —About— SPORTS

By Charles Elliott

GENIAL JIM MARION'S NO. 1 FAN

PRACTICALLY any Marion athletic event, whether its [illegible] be professional or the [illegible]-for-enjoyment type, [illegible] be incomplete without [illegible] "Jim" Lingo among the [illegible].

[illegible] Marionite can be singled [illegible] the community's leading [illegible], it would be Lingo, former top-rate athlete and manager of softball teams.

With the exception of harness [illegible] there haven't been many [illegible] events that Jim has missed [illegible] past few years. If you attended more than one Harding [illegible] football game last fall [illegible] doubtless saw Lingo in the [illegible]. At high school basketball [illegible] last winter, Jim's fine [illegible] baritone, or whatever model [illegible] it is, would ring through [illegible] gym or through whatever gymnasium or auditorium [illegible] Harding Presidents or St. [illegible] Irish happened to be playing.

[illegible] it's baseball season and [illegible] enough, the rooting, cheering, [illegible] and protestations of Lingo [illegible] become a fixture at Lincoln [illegible] field. Jim hasn't failed to [illegible] present for a home game of the [illegible] Cubs as yet and probably doesn't plan to, despite the mis[illegible] showing of the local team [illegible] their current road trip, which [illegible] Saturday at Middletown.

Jim's one of these "natural" sports fans. He enjoys about any competitive sport. But he's a loyal follower, too. He doesn't just attend contests when the home team is fighting for a championship, or the like. This is demonstrated conclusively by his faithful attendance at Marion baseball games.

One of Lingo's favorite pastimes while intently watching action from the sidelines in a basketball game or from the sun-baked stands at a baseball contest is vehement protesting when he feels the home towners have been "done dirty" by the officials. More than one umpire at Lincoln park has felt his stinging rebukes. Even Joe Azzoli, who has umpired several games here, was "criticized" by Jim for some decisions he thought were unjustly costly to the Marion team. We say "even" because Sir Azzoli as a rule was a guest in Lingo's auto on the ride downtown from the north side ball field. Azzoli apparently was not flustered over the somewhat genial "riding" and about always filled an extra space in Lingo's sedan.

Jim contends he likes horse racing, too, both the running kind and harness racing, but he finds it a pretty tough task to stay up so late at night for the harness races being wound up this week at the county fairgrounds. Jim has longer hours than usual with his mail delivery route for the postoffice because of the manpower shortage and he likes to get all the rest he can. If those races were in the afternoon, you can bet Jim would be right out there watching the nags trot or pace and perhaps even picking a winner.

Jim spends much of his spare time rewinding tennis rackets for the Mautz Bros. hardware store. He's reportedly getting quite adept at it and we wouldn't be surprised if he starts following the tennis game, if matches are brought to Marion and vicinity.

Mr. Lingo's wife is quite a sports fan herself, tending more to high school basketball and football. Their daughter is also enthusiastic about sports.

HART TURNS PITCHER

A NEW face is invading the lists of Marion's top softball pitchers. It is the countenance of Lloyd Hart, now toiling on the slab for Epworth of the Sunday School league and Universal Cooler in the Industrial league. Hart has started four games thus far, two for each team, and has been all-victorious.

This is Lloyd's first season as a regular starting chucker for Marion league softball teams. He must have somethin' on the ball. Of course, he has two strong teams behind him. Epworth is the class of the Church loop, unless St. Mary shows up exceptionally well this year and Cooler is again one of the Industrial circuit's big guns. Last year Hart did most of his playing at first base, being one of the mainstays of the Universal Cooler and Epworth outfits. His plate prowess has been established.

While Hart is just setting out on a softball pitching career, Harold "Fat" Millisor still is going strong as one of the city's softball hurling deans in the matter of years of service. Millisor's latest display of pitching effectiveness was the shutting out of the Fairfield Engineering team Tuesday night on a mere four hits. Woody Walters is back in the pitching racket again this season after finding it impossible to play last season because of irregular working hours. He's twirling for the Marion Steam Shovel team. Woody was one of the first softball pitchers in this district to use the "snap" delivery, which was a big factor in the winning of several championships several seasons back by the Wesley team in the No. 1 Church loop. In those days, the Sunday School league was rated on a virtual par with the now top-ranking Industrial loop.

BACKWARD SPELLING

WHAT the grab bag has to offer: Seniah, which placed second in a $300 pace event on Tuesday night's Little Grand Circuit harness racing card, is the name "Haines" spelled backwards. This is understandable since Mrs. Daisy Haines of Richwood was the horse's original owner. It is now owned by Lloyd Wright of Mansfield. Sep Palin of Indianapolis and Harry Fitzpatrick of Du Quoin, Ill., two of the best drivers in the 1944 Little Grand Circuit meet, have departed with some of their prize horses to North Randall track in Cleveland, where the Grand Circuit will be launched next Monday afternoon. Racemen now look for a battle for driving honors among Wayne Smart, Hugh Bell and C. I. "Slim" Shilling. Smart is accorded the best chance since he has some of the best horses in the state to drive. He's driving some of Joe Neville's horses. . . . Carl Morrison, 17-year-old second baseman, is the only home town boy on the Zanesville team of the Ohio State league. . . . Marion has no local boys on the team with Lloyd Pace of Cardington being the lone player from this district. Most of the Cub players are from out of the state. . . . The Tiffin Routh Packers, who finished runner-up in last year's district softball tournament at Lincoln park in Marion, defeated the Bud's Sunoco team of Upper Sandusky, 13 to 9 at the Harrison Smith diamond in Upper Sandusky Monday night.

FEATURE RACE

first part of the 9-16 of a mile heat but Ford Spencer came on to finish first by four lengths.

Vast Superiority

Hava Hanover demonstrated his vast superiority over the other nags in the second race in all heats. He didn't lead at the start in any canto, however, rather conserving his boundless racing energy. Hava Hanover took the lead in the backstretch of the first lap in the opening heat, but was challenged by Dick Bunter at the half, the two horses being head and head. Hava Hanover steadily pulled out in front and won by a length. He won the second heat by three full lengths but his victory in the third heat wasn't quite so pronounced. Dick Bunter was in front for the entire race, preceding the final 100 yards. Hava Hanover surged by him and won by a length.

Quarter-Finals Today in Tri-State Tennis

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 22 — The tri-state tennis tournament moved into the quarter-finals today with few upsets in the books so far.

Joanne Dunn, Iowa State champion, provided yesterday's surprise with a 1-6, 6-1, 6-4 victory over Mary Donnalley of Forest Hills, N. Y., in the women's singles, but in the men's singles favorites like Francisco Segura of Coral Gables, Fla., Billy Talbert of Indianapolis and Chalmers Ratliff of Cincinnati advanced through slight opposition.

WRESTLING AT ARMORY TONITE

An all-star wrestling card featuring Buddy Knox and Tiger Jack Moore in the two hour main event, tonight at the Marion Armory. Both Moore and Knox are well known matmen and their match should have plenty of action. Two 15 minute matches open the program at 8:30. Steve Nenoff, mustached Bulgarian from Toledo, wrestles Cy Larsen in one of the 45 minute matches while Angelo Martinelli popular Italian from New York meets Irish McGee in the other one. Call the armory after six o'clock for reservations.—Adv.

OHIO GIRL CONTENDER IN GOLF TOURANMENT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22—One of the contenders in the women's western open, which entered the quarterfinal stage today, was 21-year-old Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D.—an Ohio miss who says it has taken a year to find her lost swing.

To see her wield a club, you'd think she was born with it in her hand. She's been playing since she was 10, winning the North Dakota state title at 16 and the western junior the following year.

With her swing back in the groove, the Rollins, Fla., college student went out today against one of the tournament's prime favorites, 20-year-old Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, 1943 western amateur queen and runner-up for medalist honors in this meet.

Miss Germain won the last two holes of her second round match yesterday against Mrs. Joanne Barr Tracy of Dallas, Tex., for a close 2-up victory after shooting her poorest golf of the tournament. She required 83 strokes, eight over par.

Observers believed she would have to do better than that today to edge by Miss Tainter, who eliminated Mrs. Lawrence H. Selz, of Ravinia, Ill., 1932 western open champion, 2-up after posting a fine 38-40—78.

More than 700 species of fish have been identified in Florida waters.

Reds Close Series With Pirates with Twin Bill

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, June 22—The Cincinnati Reds wind up their current road trip today with a doubleheader against the Pittsburgh Pirates, who may be the new hitless wonders but are making the Reds work for their pay.

Clyde Shoun and Harry Gumbert are the Cincinnati pitchers, against Nick Strincevich and Truett Sewell with his blooper ball.

Another strike and the Reds might have had yesterday's game, for Ed Heusser had two strikes on Frank Colman with two out in the ninth when Frank looped out a double to score Jim Russell from second and tie the game at 1-1. Babe Dahlgren then hit a double to win.

Don't Swelter This Summer!

DRESS TO KEEP A COOL OUTLOOK

Your outlook . . . mental and physical . . . will zoom substantially the day you put your spring suit aside and step into one of these tropical weights. You'll feel so much better on hot summer days because the fabrics are porous and your skin can breathe and keep cool. You'll look better because these suits are wrinkle resistant and refuse to wilt. And the tailoring jobs are as smart as your heavier suits . . . smarter, because the flat finish fabrics take so kindly to fine workmanship. See them today in gabardines, coverts, tropical worsteds, synthetic fabrics and special mixtures. Every one is tropic weight.

LEADERS SLIP AGAIN TODAY

In Scattered Instances, However, Gains Are Made as Resistance Stiffens.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 22—Leading stocks retreated again today but while market trends were downward, resistance increased and here and there selected issues scored gains.

Dealings in lower priced motors made the opening lively and sizable blocks changed hands with occasional advances, but transfers tapered off toward the fourth hour.

Rails did a little better than the rest, picking up support shortly afternoon.

Rising occasionally were Nickel Plate common and preferred, New York Central, Sears Roebuck, and American Smelting.

hours. In exactly one week of fighting the Americans had effected a landing across reefs in the face of extremely heavy fire and had captured the southern third of the island, including two airfields.

One of these fields was Aslito, now ready for operation.

The Japanese, who numbered at least 20,000, fought with ferocity and the advantage of entrenched positions along steep ridges, and made the American advance slow during the first several days. They used batteries of mortars and considerable artillery and employed land mines and booby traps.

Battle for Hill

One hard-fought battle between Marines and Japanese occurred on a hill overlooking Magicienne bay, where Japanese artillerymen ran their fieldpieces in and out of caves, firing from outside and ducking back into the mountainside.

The Americans finally captured this and similar positions, killing 75 Japanese in one cave. Flamethrowers were used in destroying enemy mountain strongholds.

While some of the forces were engaged on the mountainside, other American troops shot their way through swamps and woodlands and fire-blackened cane fields and even through suburban city streets along the thickly-populated western shore.

The resistance was bitter but the outgunned and outnumbered Japanese, now without either sea or air strength, were forced backward.

One of the greatest advantages held by the Americans was in artillery superiority—achieved in the first few days after the landing, during which, at the price of much sweat, scores of heavy guns were dragged across reefs along the western shore.

Try To Hide Dead

From this flagship a few miles offshore I saw and heard an artillery preparation for today's attack. During the early part of the night land guns pounded Japanese positions while naval guns pumped in hundreds of shells.

Reports from shore indicated heavy Japanese losses which the enemy apparently was trying to conceal. Americans found many Japanese bodies and along one road they found two truckloads of dead Japanese, which the enemy was trying to hide.

Invasion forces, seeing victory ahead—no matter what the Japanese battle fleet tries to do about it—brought the Saipan island garrison commander and his staff ashore this morning.

There was no doubt the Americans expected to stay.

There are 2,796 languages spoken in the world, according to the computation of officers of the French Academy.

PEACE OVERTURE? According to reports from Stockholm, Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, above, "has taken the initiative toward forming a new Finnish government to discuss peace" with Russia. This report followed the fall of Viipuri, Finland's important seaport and southern gateway.

ITALY

Allied offensive in Italy were estimated unofficially at between 80,000 and 100,000 killed, wounded and captured. More than 27,000 Nazis have been taken prisoner.

The Mediterranean air force stepped up its activity, making 1,100 individual plane flights in attacking shipping in Livorno harbor, battle area targets and a railyard at Ventimiglia on the Italian Riviera. There were no losses.

The communique disclosed that in a "spirited naval engagement" in connection with the ousting of the Germans from Elba, light coastal forces torpedoed three loaded enemy lighters attempting to evacuate troops, and possibly sank a fourth. In another engagement a single enemy lighter was sunk.

One Island Evacuated

(The Berlin radio said German troops were evacuated from the island for Pianosa, south of Elba, and the island of Palmajola, between the mainland and Elba, at the time the Allies seized Elba).

The village of San Marco, about two miles northwest of Perugia, has been occupied and British troops, fighting over the country where Hannibal waged the battle of Trasimeno, are only three miles from the last lake shore town of Magione.

The Germans are resisting strongly on the west and southwest sides of Lake Trasimeno, where the Eighth army is driving on Castiglione Del Lago, principal town on the west shore of the lake. The villages of Villa Strada and San Fatucchio, southwest of the lake, were taken after some fighting.

Along the entire Eighth army front the Germans were developing major delaying action, using increased artillery and mortar fire.

French troops of the Fifth army, advancing over ragged, muddy country, cleared the enemy of several more villages, including Poggio Ucello and Montenero, in the fighting area between the Eighth army and the Americans of the Fifth to the west.

The Americans captured Paganico, on the River Ombrone, about 14 miles northeast of Grosseto.

peace, including the use of military force if necessary.

All factions were reported to be fairly well satisfied with this plan.

However, there continued the differences of opinion as to the relative strength of Govs. Thomas Dewey of New York and John W. Bricker of Ohio.

A prediction that Dewey will walk away with the presidential nomination on the first or second ballot came from former Gov. Al. M. Landon of Kansas, while Senator Taft (R-Ohio) called Bricker's chances good.

Also in Chicago, it was announced that the anti-administration American democratic national committee wants some southern city to be the scene of a projected convention of "all anti-New Deal organizations."

Telecasts of Republican Convention Scheduled

NEW YORK, June 22—Telecasts of the Republican national convention at Chicago, while not as elaborate as for the Philadelphia meeting in 1940 when there was a direct relay to New York, will be made as inclusive as can be done by delayed film transmission.

Four camera crews are to handle the job, one of the first assignments of the new RKO Television corporation. The pictures will be rushed east by plane and then processed for a three-station network, with WNBT of NBC at New York as the key. Others are WRGB at Schenectady and WPTZ at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Winston Churchill speaking from London and Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., from New York are to join in a special trans-Atlantic Fifth War Loan broadcast for CBS next Tuesday at 5 p. m.

RYE PRICES BETTER ON ALCOHOL REPORT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22—The rye market was bullish today and prices advanced sharply following announcement the war production board had directed distillers to mix 10 per cent rye in grain mash used in production of industrial alcohol. Wheat and oats were firm.

There was some profit taking in the rye pit on the advance but new buying and covering entered the market and near the close prices were 3 to 3½ cents above the day's low for net gains of 1⅝ to 2⅜.

Mill buying about mid-session gave wheat futures a firm undertone but when the demand diminished the trade became quiet and prices were fractionally lower than the day's tops.

LIPPMANN

same conception of their power and their real interests ought to reign in the relations of America, Britain, Russia, France, and Poland. They must be lifted above the level of personalities, of old formulae, conflicting intelligence reports, and bits of disputed territory.

The Soviet-Polish and the Roosevelt-de Gaulle controversies are not so much questions that can be resolved; they will have to be dissolved, and absorbed into the greater question of the settlement of the war.

The premise of any conceivable settlement in Europe, and perhaps also in the world, is that in liquidating German aggression over the long period which will follow the armistice, there will be not three, but five, principal powers. France and Poland are absolutely indispensable in any durable European settlement. They are the two great neighbors.

If we take this view, we shall see in correct perspective the pedantic, the metaphysical, problem of "recognition," and the transitory issues which have arisen to plague us because we have not dealt greatly with the fundamental issues.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

FOR THE fraction of a second, Hugh looked intently at me. Then he smiled with evident relief.

"I might have known you'd have something all thought out," he said, while the faces of Junior and Roderick glowed with affectionate pride. "But you don't need to wait for my approval. That is given you now, right unseen, hearing unheard."

Outlines Plan

"Thank you," I said, and then swiftly outlined the plan which had come to me at Hugh's first mention of the danger by train.

"In the first place," I began, "and Father have that hideaway in Greenwich Village and the armored cars going to and from it which he now has?"

"No," Hugh said, his face alive with interest. "He was talking about it, planning for it, before I left, but he never had completed his plans."

"Well, he has it now," I said, and gave him a quick description of the hideaway with its hidden cells below, and its camouflaged entrance, big enough for a truck, through the Chinese food factory next door, with the steel curtains, apparently walls, which could be raised and lowered for the passage of a car into the hideaway basement.

"Not a cog missing," Hugh commented. "But there wouldn't be, with the Chief."

Two Armored Cars

"He has two armored cars always at his disposal," I went on, "and can get guards at a minute's notice."

"I think I begin to see your plan," Hugh said, but I only nodded agreement as I hurried on.

"Before I go any further," I said, "I want to ask you one question. You do not wish my father to come out here until he has had the chance to do something about that memoranda. I am to report to him?"

"No, he must act on that. Otherwise I would not ask you to make the trip."

"I do not mind the trip in the least," I said. "In fact, I think I shall enjoy it. And here is what I shall do."

I paused for just an instant, to marshal my facts, saw Hugh's eyebrows begin to contract in the involuntary frown common to him and to my father when the tempo of an important conversation slows down. But, while I am used to it, and do not mind my father's frown, I found myself distinctly resenting Hugh's, even though I knew it really was a subconscious action.

No Resentment

But I was able to keep all traces of resentment out of my face and voice, as I rapidly sketched my plan.

"I shall go immediately to the telephone," I said, "get hold of Lillian, and in our own private code have her start for here as soon as possible in one of the armored cars, together with three guards for outside the house here, besides the driver of the car, and a guard for the return journey.

She will communicate with my father, and tell him to meet me at the hideaway, and to have some F. B. I. men there, available for tracking."

"For tracking?" Hugh interrupted sharply. "Ah, yes, I see! Please forgive me for interupting, and go on!"

"I shall be ready to start back within half an hour after Lillian gets here," I said, "and shall go directly to the hideaway. If we have any lunch at all, I shall arrive there long before the train comes into the Pennsylvania station from out here.

"Then," I went on, "after I have delivered your messages to my father, and written it down for him if he wishes a copy, he and I and the F. B. I. men can go to the station, mingle with the crowd and watch the passengers come in.

Can Identify Them

"Of course I don't know," I finished, "whether he will wish them captured at once, or whether he will wish them trailed. But in either case, I shall be able to identify all three."

But, good heavens!" Hugh expostulated as I finished, "those men didn't see the rest of us but they had a good look at you,—better even than at Jim and Kane. They will be sure to know you."

I looked at him with a quizzical smile touching the corners of my mouth. I felt that in a way, it was my field day, and I was enjoying it.

Not in the elaborate mourning costume with a heavy veil which Lillian has, and whom I shall ask her to bring with her. When I arrive at the hideaway, I shall be dressed in it, with a grey wig beneath the veil. I assure you I will be unrecognizable. Besides, I shall not have to depend on my own skill for identifying all three of them."

I lunged at the boys significantly, saw the light leap into their faces, and was ready for Hugh's almost barking question.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean," I said slowly, "that if you approve, I'd like to take the boys with me on the journey."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Contagious Aspects

A CORRESPONDENT, H. S., of Craigsville, Virginia, asks: "Will you settle an argument for us by telling us how long the germs of the following diseases live outside the body (not in the laboratory): tuberculosis, venereal diseases and scarlet fever."

It is a very good practical question.

The germs of tuberculosis can live outside the body indefinitely. They have been cultivated from the grave wrappings of Egyptian mummies. Some of the bodies of Egyptian mummies show unmistakable signs of having tuberculosis of the spine or pleurisy during life and the germs have been cultivated from these spots. The mummies dated from at least four thousand years ago and can hardly be said to come under the definition of living substance. The old campaign against spitting in public places was based on the fact that if a tuberculous individual spits on the ground the sputum would dry and release the tuberculosis germs which would blow about and be breathed in by a healthy person.

However, we have learned that infection by that means is very uncommon in tuberculosis. The usual methods of contagion are by human contact—parent to child, brother to sister, etc., in early life and by milk from cattle infected with tuberculosis. Kissing an infected person is very dangerous for a child, not so dangerous for an adult, because the latter has usually acquired immunity. For the same reason drinking from a glass or using a spoon or fork or napkin used by a tuberculosis patient is liable to spread contagion.

The two commonest venereal diseases differ in the manner of contagion. Syphilis is never transmitted except by human contact. The spirochaeta, the cause of syphilis, does not live for any period of time, perhaps as long as ten seconds, away from human flesh. No animals except some species of monkey can be infected with the spirochaeta. The fear that syphilis can be spread from contacts with table ware in a restaurant or at a soda fountain is without foundation.

Gonococcic infection can be spread by articles of clothing and other articles. But such cases are relatively rare.

Scarlet fever is one of the so-called exanthemata (acute skin eruption) diseases that can be transmitted by fomites, the definition of a fomite being any external non-living object other than food that can transmit a disease. One of the famous cases that led to the intensive research on the isolation of the germ of scarlet fever was that of a nurse who in taking care of the bed linen of a scarlet fever patient pricked her finger with a pin and developed scarlet fever. This is the reason it is so important to isolate a scarlet fever patient and fumigate or sterilize all the articles in the sick room after the patient recovers.

A child with scarlet fever should be given only books and toys that can be burnt when the period of convalescence is over. All the hangings and furniture of the room, the mattress and bed clothes, the window sills and floor should be fumigated, or rubbed down with an antiseptic solution like lysol or burnt.

In this scarlet fever differs from measles. Measles is spread entirely by human contact and fomites have never been proved to be responsible for cross contagion. Thus the measles patient can be allowed to get up as soon as the eruption has subsided (provided there are no complications, such as running ear) and except for the ordinary routine and laundry and airing the room needs no special treatments at all.

Chickenpox and mumps are similar to measles in respect to communicability. There are no authentic cases of contagion of these diseases which occurred other than by direct contact.

But the degree of infectiousness of these childhood diseases is almost in direct opposition to their transmission by external objects. Measles, chickenpox and mumps are very contagious. Getting down wind or in the line of cough of a patient seems to be enough to make exposure. Scarlet fever on the contrary is very moderately contagious. The proof of this can be seen in any group of people if you ask those who have had measles to raise their hands and then ask those who have had scarlet fever to do the same. Nearly every hand is raised for measles, only about a tenth for scarlet fever.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. H.:—Is vinegar in the food injurious to one who is anemic? For instance, beets, spinach, beef cooked with vinegar?

Answer: Vinegar has no effect on the iron in these foods, and presumably it is the iron the anemic person wants from them.

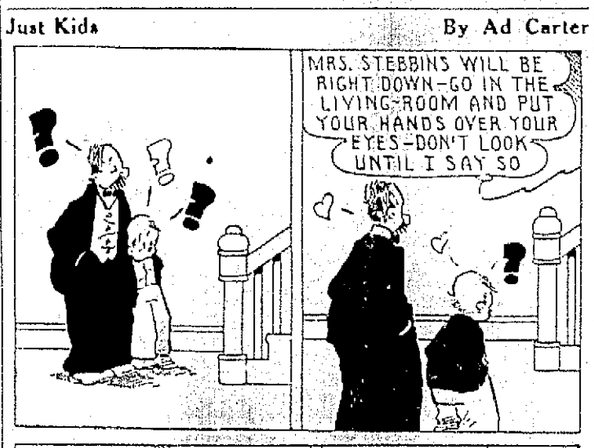

IN HARNESS AGAIN. Matinee idol of silent pictures, Francis X. Bushman (above) returns to the screen for the first time in many years to portray the role of Bernard M. Baruch in a movie about President Woodrow Wilson and the first World war.
